Red wreath signals safety in Antioch

By MARY SULLIVAN
Lakeland Newspapers

The wreath donning the Antioch Fire and Rescue Department building is gleaming bright red, a sign that residents practiced caution over the holidays.

The wreath, lighted with red bulbs, was hung during Thanksgiving for the Keep the Wreath Red safety campaign. Each red bulb was to be replaced by a white one in the event of a holiday-related fire or accident. Not one bulb was replaced.

When the time finally comes to take down the tree, it should be properly discarded and under no means burned in the fireplace. Although a well-tended fireplace fire can provide cozy warmth, an old Christmas tree can be deadly kindling.

"Christmas trees burn much hotter because they have a flammable content within them," said Shannon.

According to Shannon, contained within evergreen trees is a component of highly flammable turpentine.

"The tree burns hot and it burns fast," he said.

The intense heat of the tree further ignites creosote which may have accumulated in the chimney.

Individuals striving to keep warm in the face of sub-zero temperatures should practice caution and leave heating problems to the professionals, said Shannon.

"Many fires during the wintertime are caused by people trying to thaw pipes," said Shannon.

He warns that an attempt to warm a pipe which is touching wood, may cause the wood to ignite. To alleviate the risk, he recommends that professionals be employed to tend to any case of frozen pipes.

"Eliminate the possibility of a fire," he said.

For heartier souls, wishing to brave the brisk temperatures in pursuit of recreation on frozen lakes, Shannon urges individuals to have a sensible knowledge of the lake or consult with someone who does.

"Know the lake, know the depth of the ice before you go out on it," he said, "if you're unsure of what the depth is, don't go on it."

When driving in winter, Shannon suggests that motorists keep a blanket in the car in case they become stranded. Chains and a shovel can also be useful items for traveling in winter weather.

Acres and acres

This woody parcel of land is part of 17,557 acres of land owned by the Lake County Forest Preserve District. In 1990, the district purchased the most land in a single year, 2,469 acres at 16 sites.—Photo by Lisa Benitez.

YCC officers named

The Youth Conservation Corps Advisory Committee for the Lake County Forest Preserve District elected new officers for 1991 at a recent meeting.

"The Advisory Committee raises funds from area businesses and organizations to allow Lake County youth to work outdoors in our forest preserves during the summer," according to Andrea S. Moore, President of the Lake County Forest Preserve District.

The Youth Commission Corps (YCC) is a coeducational program that helps 16 to 18 year-old youths develop a good work ethic and learn about the environment.

YCC Officers for 1991 are: Stephen Smurthwaite of Abbott Laboratories, YCC Vice Chairman-Programs; Barbara Posner of Tenneco Automotive, YCC Chairman; Janet Bacci of MDA Scientific, Inc., YCC Vice Chairman-Fundraising.

Work projects in past summers have included developing nature trails, planting native vegetation, clearing land, and constructing trail bridges, soil retaining walls and canoe launches. The youths also receive training in first aid, basic work skills and environmental awareness.

For 1991, the program workers will earn $4.75 per hour and work an eight-hour day, weather permitting, Monday through Friday. The program will be eight weeks long, beginning June 10 and concluding on August 2, 1991.

Youths interested in participating in the program, or community leaders willing to volunteer as a YCC Advisory Committee member, should call the Lake County Forest Preserve District at (708)367-6640.

Health dept. to assist substance abusing pregnant women

The Lake County Health Department announced receipt of a grant from the Department of Health and Human Services to begin a program which will address the medical, social and psychological needs of substance abusing women and their infants. The goals of the project are to decrease alcohol and other substance abuse among pregnant and postpartum women; to improve the birth outcomes of substance abusing women and the care they give their infants; and to identify infants born to substance abusing mothers, assess problems inherent with these infants and provide appropriate treatment and health education.

"When you examine the statistics of our community and our various programs, you see the need for such a program," explained Dr. Steven R. Potsic, executive director of the Lake County Health Dept.

"For instance, at any given time, 4 out of every 100 women in our Prenatal Program are known substance abusers. In addition, our Alcoholism Treatment Center and Women's Residential Services programs receive an average of 4 new requests every month from pregnant women for treatment services."

Among services to be provided in the program are the offering of a case management team consisting of a substance abuse counselor and community health nurse to provide treatment and medical services on an outpatient basis; coordination of services with other agencies serving these populations; providing in-home counseling and community health services to fit a client's specific needs; and support, counseling and referral services to partners/spouses of clients. In addition, other Health Dept. staff will be trained on effective identification and treatment of substance abusing women and their children.

Hospital offers 'Trim Team'

Registration is now open for the next session of Good Shepherd Hospital's Trim Team program. This 10 week fitness program teaches weight control through improved nutrition and regular exercise.

The next session will begin Jan. 14, meeting on Monday evenings from 6:30 to 8 p.m. This class will be held at Good Shepherd Hospital. Fee for the program is $95. Registration is required. For further information, or to register, call Good Shepherd Hospital at (708)381-9600, ext. 5237.

Busy ACHS won't slow down in 1991

By MARY SULLIVAN
Lakeland Newspapers

"I'm looking for a successful referendum in 1991," said Antioch Community High School (ACHS) Supt. Gary Allen.

Capping off its 75th anniversary year, the high school is abuzz with interest and anticipation of the future.

"This is a busy place," said Allen.

The hustle and bustle within the halls, classrooms and offices of ACHS is just a harbinger of things to come. On the forefront of this trend, says Allen, is an increased interest on the part of students.

"We've expanded the curriculum opportunities for the students," he said.

In 1990, the school board voted to lessen the restrictions on the number of courses students were permitted to take. Students may now ask to take more than five courses per semester.

Yet, meeting the educational needs of students requires an almost constant review of what is available to them. For example, many ACHS students have expressed a desire for additional math and science courses.

"We're trying to meet their needs and interests," he added.

In response, the school acquired new courses such as Honors English I and Principles of Technology. Principles of Technology deals specifically with math, science and industrial arts in relation to vocational areas.

Technological advancements have resulted in greater demands from higher education and the work force that the school is striving to accommodate. Additionally, societal and peer group demands have created the need for programs designed educate students to the hazards of substance abuse.

The ACHS Student Assistance Program received a major emphasis in 1989-90. The Red Ribbon Program garnered support in the war against drugs from students and non-students throughout the district.

The program also reaches out to parents and during regularly scheduled Parent

Awareness Nights. Since the forums began in Oct., 1989, parents have seen presentations on issues ranging from their child's self-esteem to underage drinking to date rape.

The continuous evolution of programs such as Student Assistance, the increasing demands and numbers of students, as well as the growing number of state mandates have taxed the existing school building and landed the question of expansion on an April referendum ballot.

Polley Field, a site already owned by the school district, has been selected as the future site of a new school, should the referendum be passed.

Antioch prepares for 100th anniversary bash

By MARY SULLIVAN
Lakeland Newspapers

Preparations are taking shape for the Village of Antioch's 100th Anniversary Celebration in 1992.

Bill Brook and Linda Pedersen are co-chairpersons of the steering committee planning the festivities which are expected to span the entire year.

Thus far on tap, is a February, 1992 dinner dance sponsored by the Antioch Women's Club to kick off the celebration. A week-long of festivities is scheduled for June 13-21.

Residents are being asked to lend their creative skills to devise a theme for the event. Theme suggestions may be mailed to Osmond Insurance, P.O. Box 635, Antioch. The winning entry will receive a $100 savings bond. Deadline for entries is Feb. 15, 1991.

Local artists can also get involved by creating a centennial logo to be used on throughout the year.

A variety of committees are pitching in to ensure that the special occasion is, indeed special. The steering committee is comprised of Brook, Pederson, Vickie Axton, Aileen Beil, Jim Fields, Dorothy Larson, Tim Osmond and Pres Reckers.

In addition special committees are being appointed to organize the centennial parade, special events, fundraising and the dedication of centennial park. According to Pederson, a newly built park is planned to be designated in honor of the village's birthday and a focal point of the festivities.

The steering committee is also seeking the cooperation of the Antioch Chamber of Commerce for the establishment of a retail committee and the historical society for the creation of a historical booklet.

Joe Hunley has been appointed as chairman of the publicity committee. Tom Haley is heading the centennial home committee to find and identify homes and buildings which are 100 years old or older.

The grade schools and high school are also expected to join in the planning, "so we can get the kids involved in the centennial also," said Pederson.

The steering committee meets twice a month and expects to have their committees in place by their Jan. 3 meeting.

For more information contact Pederson, 395-1384 or Brook, 395-1166.

St. Peter's garners fourth place trophy at Knight's tournament

Lake County schools did not fare well in the final four contests and championship tilts of the fifth annual Mid-Season Lake County basketball invitational held at the College of Lake County.

St. Peter of Antioch was the area's highest finisher, earning a fourth-place trophy. St. Peter fell to St. Emily 59-50 in overtime in the third place game. Prince of Peace and St. Emily were ousted in third round games.

In the title game, Our Lady of Wayside downed St. Theresa 50-42.

Dave Smith led St. Peter's efforts in the third place game with 19 points and A.J. Case added 10. Art Wicklein contributed nine points and Adam Haley eight.

The two teams were tied at 17-17 at halftime, but St. Peter took a 33-32 lead at the end of the third quarter on a basket by Smith.

Smith seemingly secured a St. Peter win when he canned two free throws for a 46-44 lead with :50 left.

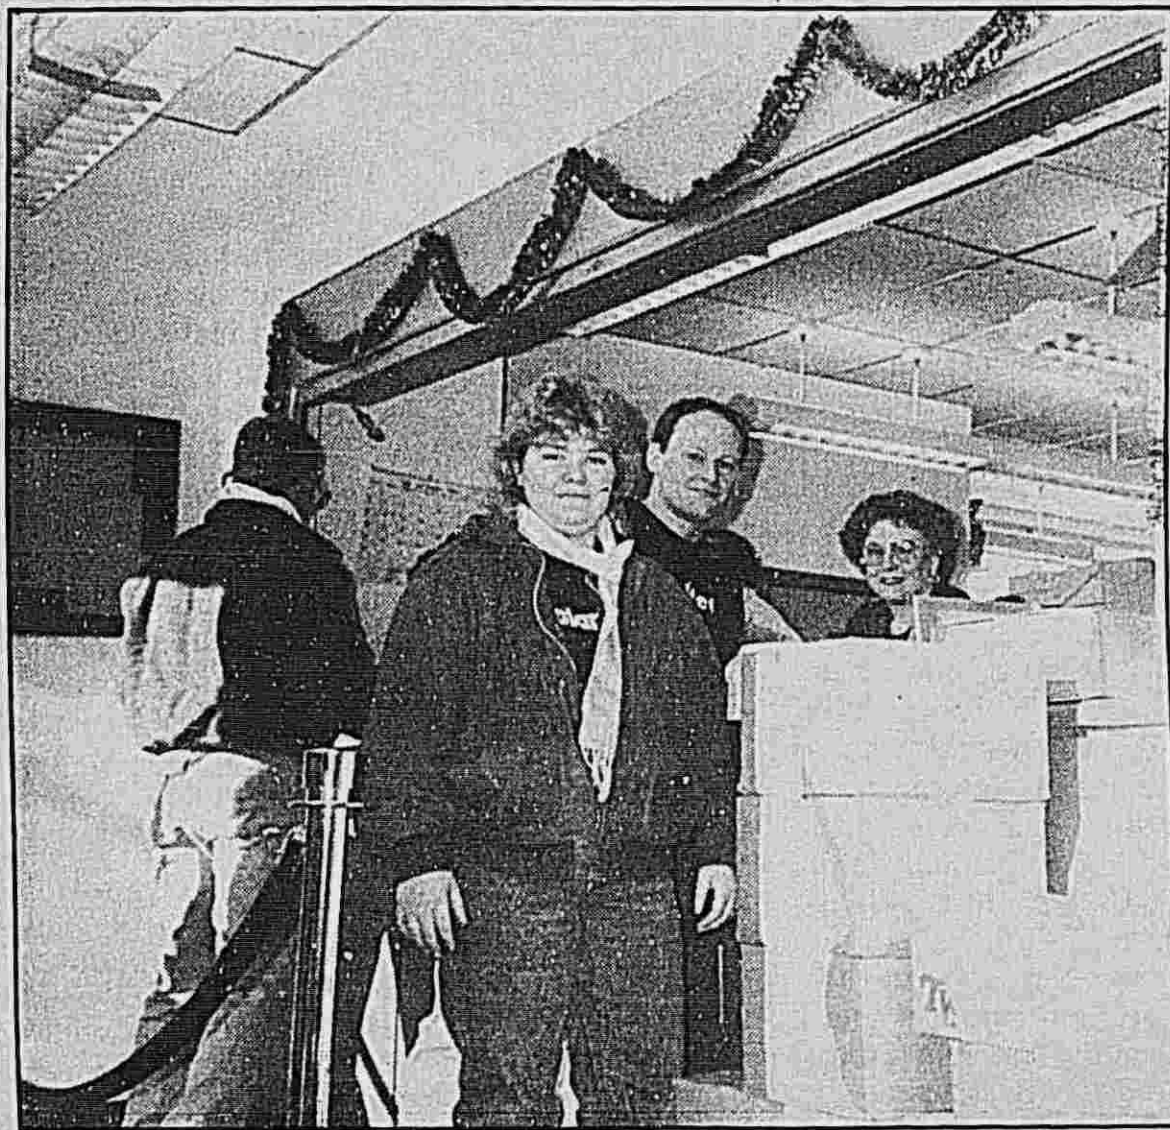

But St. Emily got the benefit of one of the longest three seconds in history at the end of regulations. St. Emily had the ball-out-of-bounds, passed it to halfcourt and called timeout. That left two seconds left, and a layup tied the contest as the buzzer sounded. St. Peter fans thought the time should have expired because the in-bounds ball was tipped and the player who caught the pass bobbled it.

St. Emily dominated the overtime, the first in the tourney's history. St. Peter was limited to two free throws by Smith.

St. Peter was sent to the third-place game with a 60-49 loss to Our Lady of Wayside in the final four round.

St. Peter had downed St. Raymond 60-41 in the third round. St. Peter's Nabors are coached by Kurt Duehr. Other team members are: Brad Lehner, Tim McKinney, and Chris Pasarella.

Entertaining the troops

Dollar Video Stores in Antioch, Libertyville, Round Lake and Streamwood each donated 100 videos for shipment overseas to American troops participating in Operation Desert Shield. The action comes at the request of former Antioch resident Graham Bury who is serving with the U.S. Army in Saudi Arabia. ## Dollar Video stores send entertainment to troops

Graham Bury, formerly of Antioch, is a long-time customer of Antioch Dollar Video. In December, he placed a special request for the store to mail him some tapes. Bury is stationed in Saudi Arabia, serving the U.S. Army in Operation Desert Shield.

Together with stores in Libertyville, Round Lake and Streamwood, Dollar Video rallied around the request. The four stores each pitched in about 100 videos for the U.S. troops overseas.

According to Dollar Video General Manager Geary Smith, discretion had to be used in selecting the tapes, due to strict Saudi government guidelines on the content of materials sent to U.S. troops.

Smith said that the videos are mainstream releases that have been previously viewed. Most of the selections are family-oriented, however several R-rated selections were also sent.

The 400 videos, valued at approximately $500, were mailed from the Antioch Post Office on Christmas Eve.

Antioch offers two options for Christmas tree collection

Drying branches and fallen pine needles signal the passage of another Christmas season. Antioch residents have two options for disposing of their Christmas trees, according to Antioch Treasurer Barbara Reulbach.

Waste Management of Lake County, will be pick up trees, on request, at an additional charge of $3 per tree. Residents should call prior to putting their tree out for collection. To arrange a pick up call 395-2020.

Additionally, the Lake County Forest Preserve Dist. has set up drop off sites at the following forest preserves: Green Belt in Waukegan and North Chicago, Old School near Libertyville, Van Patten Woods near Zion, Wright Woods near Mettawa, Ryerson near Deerfield and Lakewood near Wauconda.

Drop off sites are marked in the parking lot near the preserve maintenance building. All tinsel and ornaments must be removed. No other yard wastes will be accepted and commercial sellers are not eligible to deposit their trees at the site. For more information contact the Lake County Forest Preserve Dist., 367-6640.

PTO function brings visitors past and present

by LIZ SCHMEHL
(708)395-5380

Successful Fundraiser

Let me start off with an advance "forgive me if I inadvertently leave you out." I really enjoyed my and Dave Tomei stopped in to shop the bazaar and visit with everyone. I especially enjoyed my chat with Bob and Grace Ulrich who truly enjoy visiting these functions at GLS.

Hometown Goodies

participation in the Grass Lake School annual PTO Breakfast with Santa and craft sales, as it gave me the opportunity to visit with a lot of alumni of Grass Lake School and also a lot of the people who are presently active in school affairs. However, I did not take notes, thus the following coverage is from memory only.

Barb and Lee Marre were there along with their sons, Rick, Ken and spouses, and grandkids. "Little" Kenny Bergl, now big Kenny Bergl, walked in with them. Judy Rey and her daughter, Julie, and her two children were there to visit with Santa. I asked Julie where her sister, Robin Rey Cook, was with her twin sons and she informed me the little fellas were under the weather. Pat and Berni Ozewski were there selling their beautiful wares and their son Bernie, Jr. and his one-year-old son, Benjamin, stopped by. Naturally I was pleased to get a chance to see the baby.

Ernie and Ed Okrezik were proudly strutting around with their new little grandchild. Sue Anderson and her daughters, Cheryl and Bonnie, were enjoying breakfast along with Sue's granddaughter, Jennifer. Barb Coia was snapping pictures of her sons, Johnny and Joey, and little daughter, Janelle, as they sat on Santa's lap and I saw Pam and Dan Clarke in the crowds as their children Danny, Becky, Holly, Katie and Dale enjoyed the festivities. Staff members, Ray Liss, Sandy Gilday, Gayle Milowski, Sandy Nolan, Carolyn Adams, Tom Bainbridge, Marilyn Bowen

Jeanne, Pete, Jessica and Petie Lehmann enjoyed a pancake breakfast and a visit with Santa. I snapped a picture of Debbie Foerster and her daughters Lauren and Christine. Debbie's sister, Cindy Schaller, and her two little ones, Nicole and Christopher were also on hand to participate in the picture. Robin Gwinn, Heidi Gwinn and Hanna Gwinn were helping to man the cheerleading booth. Little Heidi kept Santa company on and off through the day and she looked so cute and grown up with her hair crimped. Pam Cardis, who chaired the craft sales, was there along with her husband, John and daughters, Jenny, Jessica and Jill and ten-month-old son, Johnny, who started to walk already. I was also pleased to see Linda, Beth Ann, Mike, and Mary Boerman. Linda's daughter, Michelle O'Connor, was also there showing off her pretty little daughter, Amanda. Some of the other faces in the crowd were, Renate and Dick Wlezien, Cathy, Lee, Kyle and Kaja Milovanovic, Michaeline Dituro and her mom, Lorrie, Dave, Lindsey and AJ Teaters, Ed and Brian Dembinski, Debi, Terri, David and Brian Mozal, Shahnaz and Ryan Hansen, Patti, Jenny and Nicki Santiemmo, John, JoAnn, Matt and Jeff Fleshman, Alice, Mike and Matt Fleming, Judy Fechter, Gary Groh, Cheryl, Wally and Bonnie Henning, Sally and Adam Hiller, Dave, Linda, Cindy and Christy Jones, Connie Bittner Pease, Cindy, Scott, Chris and Tommy Marquart, Donna and Karen Schmehl, Vivian, Rudy, Don, Linda, Jamie, Ray, Marie, Jenny and Kelley Brausman, Tricia and Darlene Olenick, Mary Franzen, Agnes and Connie Galonopolus and about 200 other people, some of whom I did not know and some of who I am probably forgetting to include.

Finally, I would once again like to welcome Jan Harrison to our area. Jan moved to the Grass Lake area from Glenview, Ill. last March. My "little birdie" friend introduced her to me and once again she told me how much she enjoyed reading "Hometown Goodies" as it gave her an opportunity to become familiar with some of the names of the people in and about town. Once again, Jan, thanks for the encouraging words, keep reading and feel free to contact me with a tidbit or two from time to time.

Looking Good

I would like to say hi to Ed Dembinski and thank him for his kind words concerning my daughter, Barbara's nursing expertise. Barb was on duty during Ed's recent hospital stay and he tells me, while she is a tiny mite of a thing, she is quite a capable RN. Incidentally, Ed looked as good as new and it was great seeing him back into action again. As he walked side by side with his son, Brian, I was reminded how quickly time passes.

Doing Fine

I understand that Pat Harris, custodian and bus driver of Grass Lake School is back to work after his hospital stay. Pat will get back into the swing of things gradually as for the time being he will not be driving the bus. Glad you are doing so well, Pat.

Happy New Year

Since this is the first column of 1991, I would like to wish you all a very Happy New Year.

Cut! 'Shots' just a movie sound effect

Antioch Police responded to complaints of gunshots, Dec. 19, only to find that the "shots" were part of the shooting of a home video. The shots were actually sound effects made by striking a large piece of metal attached to a pipe.

According to police reports, officers arrived at 96 Bridgewood to find video and sound recording equipment and movie lights set up in the backyard. Donald Rasmussen, 24, was questioned about the "gunshots" at his parents' home. He explained that he was producing a home video movie. No citations were issued.

Vandals strike

Vandals broke into the Antioch Youth Baseball equipment building at Williams Park, Dec. 15, however no items were reported missing. According to Antioch Police Dept. reports, an unidentified individual or individuals kicked open the door to the building, breaking the door jam.

Williams Park

Inside, a metal locker was found pried open and hinges were removed from a wooden storage box. The public address system contained in the box was found in tact. Clothing belonging to the girls' baseball team was found scattered on the floor.

Chamber names nominees

New directors of the Antioch Chamber of Commerce will be presented at the installation dinner, Jan. 8 at 7 p.m. at the Comfort Inn. Nominees for the posts are as follows: Flo Heiselman, Flo's Family Hair Care; Nancy Ahlquist, State Bank of Antioch; Reed Ano, Collette Plumbing; Bill Heyden, Waste Management of Lake County; Caroline Blanchette, State Bank of Antioch; Harold Kirchhardt, Abbey Printers; Jean Bolyard, Quaker Industries; Randy Nolan, Antioch Quick Print; Frank DiMarco, DiMarco's Restaurant; Todd Stolarik, Century 21; and Mark Friel, Pip Printing.

Signs topic of Chamber meeting

Retailers are encouraged to attend the Jan. 9 meeting at the Antioch Chamber of Commerce. Fred Stahl of Stahl Signs will offer a presentation "Signs: The Good, The Bad and The Ugly." He will discuss the elements of effective signs, sign alternatives, common mistakes in creating signs, cost considerations and installation and location.

Village admin. Tim Wells and village building inspector, Lawrence "Chick" Carstensen will explain plans to update the villages sign code.

Antioch Boy Scouts log year's achievements

by PAUL HETTICH

Antioch's Boys Scouts of America Troop 92 reviewed its accomplishments during 1990 at the troop's annual dinner and Court of Honor held at the Loyal Order of Moose Lodge 525. During the winter months, the troop conducted two campouts, won the annual Lakes District Klondike Derby, won first and second places again at the Lakes Dist. First Aid meet, attended the Milwaukee Sport Show, and began the 10th year of its wood duck project with Chain O'Lakes State Park. Spring activities included two campouts, placing fifth and seventh at the Northeast Illinois Council First Aid meet, attending a Bulls-Bucks basketball game, a family picnic and Court of Honor, and a hike at Kettle Moraine state park.

One of 1990's highlights was the troop's annual two-week summer camp at Michigan's Camp Owasippe. Attending were Eric Burgess, Eric Francke, Geoff Landrum, JJ Larson, Brian Paschke, Jason Pederson, Jeremi Pederson, Michael Reese, Ted Salecki, Jesse Saltzman, Chris Sittler and Steve Weston. They earned 53 merit badges among them in such skills as archery, canoeing, cooking, Indian lore, leatherwork, lifesaving, orienteering, sports and swimming.

Under the leadership of Senior Patrol Leaders Jason Pederson and Landrum, Troop 92 won the Baden Powell award for maintaining an exemplary camp site each week. Ten special awards were earned as follows: Jason Pederson and Salecki for the Mile Swim, Paschke for Project COPE (Challenging Outdoor Physical Experience), Rees for the National Rifle Assoc. (NRA) Promarksman, and Landrum, Larson, both Pedersons, Sittler and Weston for the Camp Wolverine Canoe Race. The adults who contributed to the Scouts successful summer camp experience included Ray and Linda Landrum, Jim Ratajczyk, Elaine Salecki, Tom Sittler, and Frank Zeien.

Scouting's highest adventure experience is a two-week backpacking trip in the rugged and beautiful Sangre DeCristo mountains of northeast New Mexico at Philmont Scout Ranch located near historic Cimmaron. The Scouts who attended are crew leader Stephen Goetzelman, Gene Brown, John Harting, John Thelen, Dan Weston, and Dave Weston. The adult advisors were Bob Brown, Bill Goetzelman, Ray Harting, and Dick Weston. The itinerary included 11 days of carrying 40 to 45 pound packs over 70 miles of rocky terrain in elevations ranging from 6,621 to 12,441 feet. The highlights were climbing New Mexico's highest mountain, Mt. Baldy, panning for gold, touring archaeological sites, horseback riding, performing a conservation project, and avoiding rain. Temperatures rose to a merciful high 80s during the day and dipped to below freezing at night. The troop hiked the steep 9,003 foot Tooth of Time, a landmark well known to pioneers traveling the nearby Santa Fe Trail. Although there was much evidence of bears, the crew avoided contact.

At the annual Lakes Dist. Camporee, Troop 92's patrols placed first and seventh in the competition. Outdoor events included camping at Illini State Park and bike riding along the Elroy-Sparta bike trail in western Wisconsin.

The troop served over 800 dinners at its 30th annual spaghetti dinner at the Moose Lodge.

Kurt Seibel, Lakes Dist. Executive Officer extended the Council's greetings at the Court of Honors. Guest speaker, Ranger Ray Eisbrenner of Chain O'Lakes State Park spoke of the 10 year partnership between the park and Troop 92 in constructing, maintaining and collecting nesting data for 50 wood duck nests. Eisbrenner presented the troop with an award of appreciation in the shape of a wood duck nest.

A good deed, well done

Chain O' Lakes State Park Ranger Ray Eisbrenner presents Antioch Troop 92 Boy Scouts with an award marking the tenth year of a joint program by the park and troop for the construction, maintenance and collection of nesting data for 50 wood duck nests. From left are Troop 92 Committee Chairman Ray Harling, Ranger Ray Eisbrenner, Senior Patrol Leader Gene Brown and Scoutmaster Dick Weston. Troop 92 is sponsored by Antioch's Loyal Order of Moose Lodge 525.

In addition, certificates of appreciation were given to the Antioch Rotary Club, Lakeland Auto Body, State Bank of Antioch, Pip Printing, Pine Tree Pet Shop, Quaker Industries, Antioch Tire, First American Bank of Lake Villa, Lyons & Ryan, Happ's Farm, Antioch Auto Parts, Bob's Marina, First National Bank of Antioch, and Creative Communications.

The troop looks forward to another exciting and productive year. However, its 15-year-old paper drive is ending due to the plunge in prices for recycleable newsprint and increased trucking costs.

Troop 92 is sponsored by Moose Lodge 525 and meets from 7 to 9 p.m. on Tuesdays at the Antioch Scout House.

Looking at 1991

While government indicators substantiate a recessionary economy, Americans face a new year with a mixture of hope, indecision and confusion.

After a record eight years of uninterrupted economic growth, a reversal is at hand. It's natural to wonder what's gone wrong. If you're out of work, explanations that the U.S. economy is experiencing a natural downturn, or as economists explain, "we're in a period of adjustment," come up pretty empty.

Despite evidence that business activity in general has slowed, there is reason to believe that the recession will be comparatively short-lived. America's post World War II economy has been remarkably resilient. A pattern of rebounds after growth pauses is well established. After the excesses of the 1980's have been absorbed, modified or erased, the United States likely will be stronger economically than ever. It was totally unrealistic to believe that the binge of leveraged buyouts, sale of junk bonds and endless building would go on forever. Foreign competition, the relentless federal deficit, the S&L crisis, and now, looming war, are reminders that we live in a real world, a world where the "Piper must be paid" sooner or later.

As we see it, the cooling off in the Lake County economy is due mainly to the reaction to outside forces. Consumer caution is resulting in a softening of retail sales, timidity in home buying and the purchase of cars and other big ticket items. In many areas hereabouts, there still is a "full steam ahead" spirit.

Business conditions in Lake County, for the most part, are healthy. We're lucky to live where we do. If we don't louse things up, Lake County still is a desirable place to live and work. Righting the wrongs will be the big question that political leaders will be struggling with during 1991 and the coming years.

Our infrastructure is groaning under the strain of too much growth that is coming too fast. Clogged highways are the most noticeable and frustrating example of lack of planning and a permissive system that encourages uncontrolled growth. Elected officials simply have to come to grips with reality. There has to be a better way for responding to growth pressures other than ripping up every bit of available open space and heaping funding needs on the backs of already overburdened real estate taxpayers. Housing construction can continue strong if the shift is made to providing affordable housing. Available housing at prices people can afford is the mainspring for continued growth in the commercial sector. Manufacturers already have shown that they are perfectly willing to relocate to Wisconsin if affordable housing isn't available in our community or neighboring towns.

Even though the future may be uncertain, there is no reason to be disheartened. If war can be avoided in the Mideast, the next 12 months can be happy and productive. We feel confident in extending season's greetings and a Happy New Year.

Less costing more

When Illinois legislators are battered about for failure to provide adequate funding for higher education, they have some irrefutable evidence to consider. Higher education enrollment is on the decline.

According to statistics provided by the comptroller's office, college enrollment has declined five of the last eight years. The figure of 713,926 last fiscal year is 32,987 below the peak headcount year of fiscal 1982.

In fiscal 1990, almost half of higher education enrollment was in institutions like the College of Lake County, reflecting the large number of persons utilizing their local community college for part-time study. Nearly 48 percent attended community colleges, compared to 27 percent at state universities and 25 percent at private institutions.

What's happening is that less students are costing more. Total higher education appropriations as of Oct. 31 in FY 91 were $2.617 billion, up 8 percent over last year, with part of the increase coming from the temporary income tax increase.

Viewpoint

Single 'party' rules politics in Illinois

by BILL SCHROEDER

Even with the Lake County Republican high command stubbing its toe on environmental issues in the fall election, Democrats failed to make any significant advances in Lake County with the exception of picking up one County Board seat.

Business Park, end the potentially lethal traffic hazard that is the intersection of Grand Ave. and Tri-State Pkwy.?

The spot has been torn up, and unlighted, for weeks (perhaps months). At night particularly if it's rainy, it is virtually impossible to see where to turn when you're westbound on Grand and want to get on Tri-State Parkway.

Gurnee police tell me there have already been a number of accidents at the intersection. Well, then why hasn't somebody fixed it. I'm no expert, but it looks to me as though a good, bright streetlight at the end of the island dividing Tri-State Parkway would do wonders toward showing people just where to turn.

Fighting the 'Big Boys'

Editor:

Having been a Grayslake merchant from 1953 through 1958, I am fully aware of the time, effort and responsibility these small, independent businessmen give to their business and the community, and I "take my hat off" to them! The people of Grayslake should be particularly thankful to Paul Smythe and his Phillips 66 gas station/car wash. His personal efforts have kept "the Big Boy" in line, somewhat, resulting in gasoline prices in the area being more realistic and lower than any place in the county. More merchants should follow his lead and challenge the price fixing/control of the big companies and make all prices of retail sales more competitive. Thanks Paul!

Communist atheist taboos

Editor:

Why in the United States is it taboo to publicly acknowledge that the ACLU (American Civil Liberties Union) has:

1. Historically worked to undermine Christian morality in government and public education?

2. Historically promoted the atheist approach to public questions and problems?

3. Historically was initiated by four communists. In 1920 Felix Frankfurter, William Z. Foster, Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, Dr. Harry F. Ward, and Roger Baldwin founded the American Civil Liberties Union.

4. Historically has worked to weaken and subvert our American form of government.

Public land plundered

Editor:

Driving along Peterson Rd., a gravel truck leaving the Lake County gravel spit a rock onto my windshield, cracking it. After paying over $300 to have it replaced, I began to wonder how many windshields have been cracked by the gravel trucks traveling from the Lake County pit? I would guess the number could be in the hundreds and the cost to innocent drivers as myself in the tens of thousands of dollars.

As I began to ponder this question, a larger and more unexplainable problem arose in my mind. Why is the Lake County Board of Trustees operating the gravel pit, when two of the local board members, Calabresa and Graham, have proclaimed themselves as "environmentalists?"

This now become more interesting because the Calabresa-Graham duo have been so critical of everyone else in Lake County on their environmental positions that I decided to explore this issue of the pit in Libertyville further.

Taking my camera, I entered the Lake County Forest Preserve from River Rd. To enter this public land, I admit I had to trespass on public property. The property is clearly posted on every telephone pole along River Rd. "No Trespassing." Those signs only intrigued me more. Why would Calabresa's and Graham's Lake County Board want to keep the public off public property, paid for by public tax dollars? My suspicions were rising as I walked onto the property. Now I began to see what Calabresa and Graham wanted to hide.

The first sight you see, and it can be seen from River Rd., is a pile of dead hickory, oak and maple trees, chainsawed by the Calabresa-Graham board to clear the land. A pile bigger than anything Mr. T or develops bulldozer could do. Trees that were once so tall and beautiful mighty, most of which could have been saplings as Indians traveled the Des Plaines basin were now dead. Wasted, with no thought of lumber for homes or fuel for a fire, but just destroyed by

Elsewhere, though, the political character of Illinois is changing. "Heavily Republican downstate" is a thing of the past. Democratic gubernatorial candidate Neil Hartigan lost downstate, but only by a 51 percent to 48 percent margin of 43,777 votes. But Hartigan carried the deep south, winning by 40,096 votes with a 57 percent margin in the 29 counties of southern Illinois. Sec. of State James Edgar became governor with help of victory in northwestern Illinois by 26,349, western Illinois by 54 percent, central Illinois by 51 percent and eastern Illinois counties by 57 percent.

Healthy support in the collar counties carried Edgar to victory. In Lake, McHenry, DuPage, Kane, Kendall and Will counties, Edgar beat Hartigan with 63 percent of the vote, even though Hartigan did much better than Adlai Stevenson did in 1986 and 1982.

Surprisingly, the Republicans ran better in traditional Democratic areas and did poorer in traditional Republican areas. Political analysts are calling this an inverse.

What does all this mean? Thomas F. Roeser, the shrewd conservative Republican and keen observer for whom we have great respect, says Illinois now has one party where two factions nominate candidates who win because they put together winning coalitions. Tom calls this party the "Dem-ublicans" or the "Repli-crats." At this point we'll let you draw your own conclusions.

Calabresa's and Graham's board to get to the gravel.

What lay further ahead turned my stomach. I felt for a moment I had entered a desolate planet, barren, scarred, plundered land, raped by Calabresa and Graham. Why? Why, I ask myself would this be permitted in Lake County? We all have worked and paid for Forest Preserves the would protect, enhance and restore the qualities of nature to our public lands.

With the departure of Graham from the Lake County Board, I wonder if Carol Calabresa has the leadership or desire to stop the plunder of our Forest Preserve Land? I also challenge Calabresa to stop the damage to the windshields of Lake County vehicles. I recommend that every county motorist who had had a window destroyed by gravel trucks traveling to and from the Lake County Forest Preserve pit send Calabresa the bill! She may get the message, so far she has not!

Calls for tax protest

Editor:

Our politicians have created a real paradox! While real estate prices in general remain steady or tend to decrease, the politicians are telling us that our property values are increasing. How can this be? Simple, if the politicians want to surreptitiously raise taxes all they do is arbitrarily tell us our property is worth more. Lo and behold, our taxes go up without any increase in the tax rates.

The politicians have recently reassessed property in my part of Lake County. As a result of their assessments, you would think that everyone in this part of Lake County is living on top of the "Mother Lode." I would be most pleased if any of these politicians would offer to buy my home and property for what they say it is worth. I could make a most substantial profit.

Our politicians have proven how inept they are in managing the tax money we turn over to them. They do however, demonstrate competence in at least one area. They excel when it comes to devising schemes to separate us from our hard earned money.

It's time to get back to the original intent of our political system. Politicians should be working for the people not the other way around as it presently exists. We can start right now. Call the phone number in you assessment notice and request the assessment protest form. If enough of us start protesting the abuses being perpetrated upon us, we might send a message to the politicians that we have finally had more than we can stand. Weren't unjust and excessive taxations reasons why our forefathers started the revolutionary war?

Justice delayed, justice denied

Editor:

Our whole society is ailing when one segment of our society is not socially healthy. Why over the past four years has the life expectancy of Black Americans declined each year while the life expectancy of other Americans increased?

Why is the infant mortality rate for black babies twice that of white babies? In fact, should not Americans as a whole be questioning why the United States is ranked 22 in infant mortality rates?

Why are blacks (and women, too) paying more for the automobiles? We consider ourselves a just society devoted to the welfare of all our citizens. Shouldn't we be alarmed by such disparity?

Let people participate

Editor:

The League of Women Voters of Lake County is extremely concerned about the lack of public input into "The Plan" developed by the Fort Sheridan Commission, chaired by Congressman John Porter. A draft plan was released to the public on Nov. 11 and it was to be completed by the commission on Dec. 11.

The league feels this report should not be forwarded to Washington for a final decision by Dick Cheney, Secretary of Defense, before the public is allowed to read it and testify on it and the commissions' advisory committees meet to provide input. The plan sent to Washington should reflect the consensus of all interested people, not just elected officials.

We urge you to contact the mayors of Highland Park, Highland, and Lake Forest, the Dist. 1 County Board members, and Fort Sheridan's representatives to the state legislature and to congress, so they may know that the people of Illinois want to participate in this recommendation for reuse of the Fort Sheridan property before it is sent to Secretary Cheney.

Letters get results

Editor:

By writing letters to the editor about issues which affect our community that I have made somewhat of a difference. The most current issue being the purchase of the First of America Bank building as a new village hall.

I feel that a letter to the editor which I wrote in Sept. of 1990 with concern over the cost of the bank facility to the taxpayers encouraged Mayor Marvin Smith to negotiate a lower price and search for lower financing.

Citizen input is very important in government. Take the time to let your elected officials know you are watching that they do the job for which you elected them, before-the-fact.

If you don't get the desired results you an act accordingly on election day.

Wasteful purchase

Editor:

If Winston Churchill lived in Lake County he might have been promoted to say "Never have so many done so much for so few." I'm thinking, of course, of the Lake County Forest Preserve's recent decision to purchase Thorngate Country Club for $27 million.

This purchase of 140 acres at a cost of more than double Picket Fence Farm ($11 million and almost 1,000 acres) leaves me more than a little curious about the seemingly cavalier attitude toward taxpayers' dollars. Could there be a shortage of golf courses in the area? It hardly seems possible since there is another course almost directly across the street and Chevy Chase Country Club is less than a five minute ride. Could it be a lack of Forest Preserve land in the area? Maybe, but the fact that Ryerson Conservation area is almost across the street and Daniel Wright Woods is also less than a five minute ride makes this taxpayer think no.

It there really is a need for another golf course in the area, I believe the county would be better advised to utilize 140 acres of land already owned, build their own golf course at a cost somewhere between $3 and $4 million dollars and save the remaining $23 million for some meaningful purchases elsewhere.

Toys, toys and more toys

Mountains of toys collected at eight Lake County Forest Preserves were given to the U.S. Marine Corps and its Toys for Tots campaign the week before Christmas. Staff Sgt. Gregory Cummings, left, of the Marine Corps Reserve Training Center in Waukegan receives part of this year's collection from Knute Sandahl, right, Forest Preserve ranger. Although the public donated many of the toys, the largest single contributor was James Eckmann Associates Inc. of Libertyville, a nationwide toy distributor.

TOYLAND IN LIBERTYVILLE—The children of Libertyville Mayor JoAnn Eckmann and her husband, Jim, are the proverbial kids in a candy store. For Christmas, birthdays and other special occasions they can have just about any toy in the world.

You see, their father is a worldwide distributor of toys—big ones, little ones, for boys, for girls. His James Eckmann Associates has offices in Green Bay and Minneapolis in addition to Libertyville. When the mayor isn't busy at the village hall she is treasurer and bookkeeper for the firm.

There are two Eckmann children, 11 and 16. "They're really not into toys any more," mom said. "But when they were or want something special we go shopping at Child World or Toys 'r Us just like everybody else."

This year the Eckmann business received lots of manufacturer's samples. So many, in fact, they were donated to the Marine Corps' Toys for Tots drive conducted by the Lake County Forest Preserve Dist. The donation was overwhelming. It gave the drive a major boost and helped make Christmas a lot merrier for hundreds of Lake County children.

GOING FOR THE GOLD—Edward Geick is up to his old ways. He hired a lawyer and filed suit against his former employer, the village of Lake Zurich.

Geick says the village violated terms of his Jan. 31, 1990, 'separation' in which neither side would reveal terms of his firing. Somebody who spilled the beans supposedly cost him an August appointment as the $59,000 director of the new Lake County Stormwater Management Committee.

Mouths are closed, but most people know about the reported $30,000 severance pay Geick received. Neither is anyone saying much about the earlier $70,000-plus won by a female village park district employee for sexual harassment.

But someone knows. They knew enough to halt his confirmation as director at an August meeting that lasted into the early hours of the morning. At the time of his interview with the committee in August, Geick was criticized by Lake Zurich Mayor James Kay for talking about this supposed secret agreement.

Geick was so sure of being named to the job he quit his job of six weeks as city manager of nearby Elkhorn, Wis. When he got dumped in Lake County he asked for and got his job back.

Geick commutes between Elkhorn and his home in Lake Zurich. Elkhorn has no residency requirement.

In Elkhorn Geick keeps a low profile. He hasn't shared his Lake County woes with the good people of that community.

"I bet half the people in town don't know who Geick is," said one leading official. "He really hasn't done or said much. The feeling around here is that he is biding his time until something better comes along."

HE'S ARRIVED!—Fred Foreman has arrived. The one-time Lake County state's attorney, who was politically transformed last fall into the U.S. District attorney for northern Illinois, is pictured in the latest issue of Newsweek magazine.

It is in connection with the indictments of state Sen. John D'Arco Jr., (D-Chicago), Alderman Frank Roti and Judge David Shields for extortion, racketeering, bribery and trying to fix a jury trial. They were entrapped with a bugging of Table One at the Counsellor's Row restaurant across from Chicago's City Hall.

Subtitle of the story was "Breaking up the movable feast of corruption."

"Ever since Chicago put 'vote early and often' into the political lexicon, it has been the country's unofficial corruption capital," the article says about the city.

PERSIAN GULF BOUND—

Guess who's going to the Persian Gulf? Marine Reservist Peter S. Karlovics of Warren Twp.

The Republican precinct committeeman was the campaign manager for Paul Chung in last fall's election.

The law school graduate just passed the bar and was preparing to join Gurnee Atty. Rudy Magna full time.

Then, the Marines called. Karlovics shipped out to Camp Lejeune, N.C., in December for wartime training.

That puts his legal career on hold for the moment. The same for the political one for this up and coming young Republican.

HOMETOWN CHRISTMAS—

Lake Zurich Mayor Jim Kay is proud of his house, especially at Christmas. This year, as every year, he held an open house.

More than 500 people stopped by to see the lavishly decorated home. The sights included a mechanical Santa Claus and 250 antique candle figures.

More visitors were expected, but the 0-minus temperatures the Saturday before Christmas kept them in their own home.

Kay, as usual, was the congenial host. This is what helps give Lake Zurich a genuine hometown flavor.

How to determine if you are an emotional eater

Are you an "emotional eater?" As adults, most of us "follow in our family footsteps," maintains Maryann Troiani, Psy. D., clinical psychologist and director of Forest Hospital's Control Over Nutrition, an outpatient program designed for compulsive overeaters.

After years of exposure, some people have eating patterns ingrained that often have more to do with emotions than with true, physical need for food, says Dr. Troiani.

"Psychological hunger often is a craving for a specific food, unaccompanied by any physical signs of hunger," she notes. "But if you're feeding psychological hunger, it's an attempt to make up for something missing in another part of your life. And you can eat and eat, but you'll never be satisfied."

For some people, emotional eating can trigger compulsive overeating or other disorders. The following list of questions was developed by Dr. Troiani to help determine emotional eating patterns:

- Do you keep snacks in your desk at work?
- Do you eat to avoid doing an unpleasant task?

- Do you raid the refrigerator at night if you can't sleep?
- Do you use food as a reward or treat after a rough day or when you've completed a big project?
- Do you eat without even thinking about it?
- Do you eat in bed late at night?
- Do you eat when you're "supposed" to, whether or not you're hungry?
- Do you find yourself thinking about your favorite food?
- Do you enjoy eating more than most other activities?
- Do you find yourself eating when something goes wrong or when you are upset?

According to Dr. Troiani, a person who answers yes to five or more questions is likely to sometimes use food to fulfill emotional needs. Yes answers to eight or more questions indicates a dependence on food and the need to make changes in coping behavior.

Creative employees

Employees of Victory Memorial Hospital displayed their creativity by participating in a hospital-wide contest to develop a slogan and logo which depicts Victory's dedication to quality. Congratulating the winners are (l-r) Mary Pergander, vice president, quality resources; Bob Stefanowski, director, security; Ken Coomans, security; Jeanie Nelson, dietary; Sue Politakis, assistant director, dietary; and Jack Pichler, vice president, general services. Coomans chose a day off with pay for his first place prize; Nelson chose her own reserved parking place in the hospital's parking lot. Her slogan reads, "Quality People, Quality Care."

Early release speeds recovery for gall bladder patients

The days of long hospital stays due to major surgery are on the way out. Whereas in the past it would have been unheard of, today "in by 9 out by 5" gall bladder surgery is a possibility.

Dr. H. J. Solomon, a general surgeon affiliated with Victory Memorial Hospital, has recently performed two conventional gall bladder surgeries in which the patients returned home the day of the surgery.

"With a motivated, healthy patient who has no other medical complications, returning home the day of surgery is definitely feasible," says Dr. Solomon.

The usual length of stay in the hospital following gall bladder removal is currently 3 to 5 days. With the presence of other disease, the hospital stay can sometimes be longer. However, an otherwise healthy patient can request early release from the hospital. Early release can reduce the number of lost work days.

"In two recent cases the patients asked if there was any way they could go home the same day," says Dr. Solomon. "I showed them how they could achieve it. Patients need to work for it, to get up and walk around, to show me they are able to go home."

Leaving the hospital early does not mean that the patient is abandoned. Dr. Solomon gives the surgery patient instructions to insure the patient's safety, such as no lifting or strain for 3 to 7 days following surgery. Follow-up visits with the primary doctor and the surgeon are scheduled to check progress and remove stitches.

"We haven't had a problem related to same day or day after gall bladder surgery hospital release. My patients have never even required home health care because of early release," says Dr. Solomon.

Proven weight loss program

Saint Therese Medical Center is accepting enrollments for "The Power of Positive Eating" weight control program.

This comprehensive program combines nutritional counseling with behavior therapy and is proven to be effective for permanent, healthy weight reduction.

A registered dietitian teaches the eight, one-hour sessions in which participants learn how to set realistic goals.

"The Power of Positive

Eating" will be held Wednesdays starting Jan. 23, 7 p.m., at Saint Therese Area Treatment Satellite and Thursdays starting Jan. 24, 7 p.m. at Saint Therese Medical Center. Cost for the class is $75. Enrollment is limited. Call (708)360-2392 to reserve a place.

Save energy, winterize your home

Cut back on winter energy bills by about 20 percent — while keeping the home comfortable — with simple, inexpensive measures:

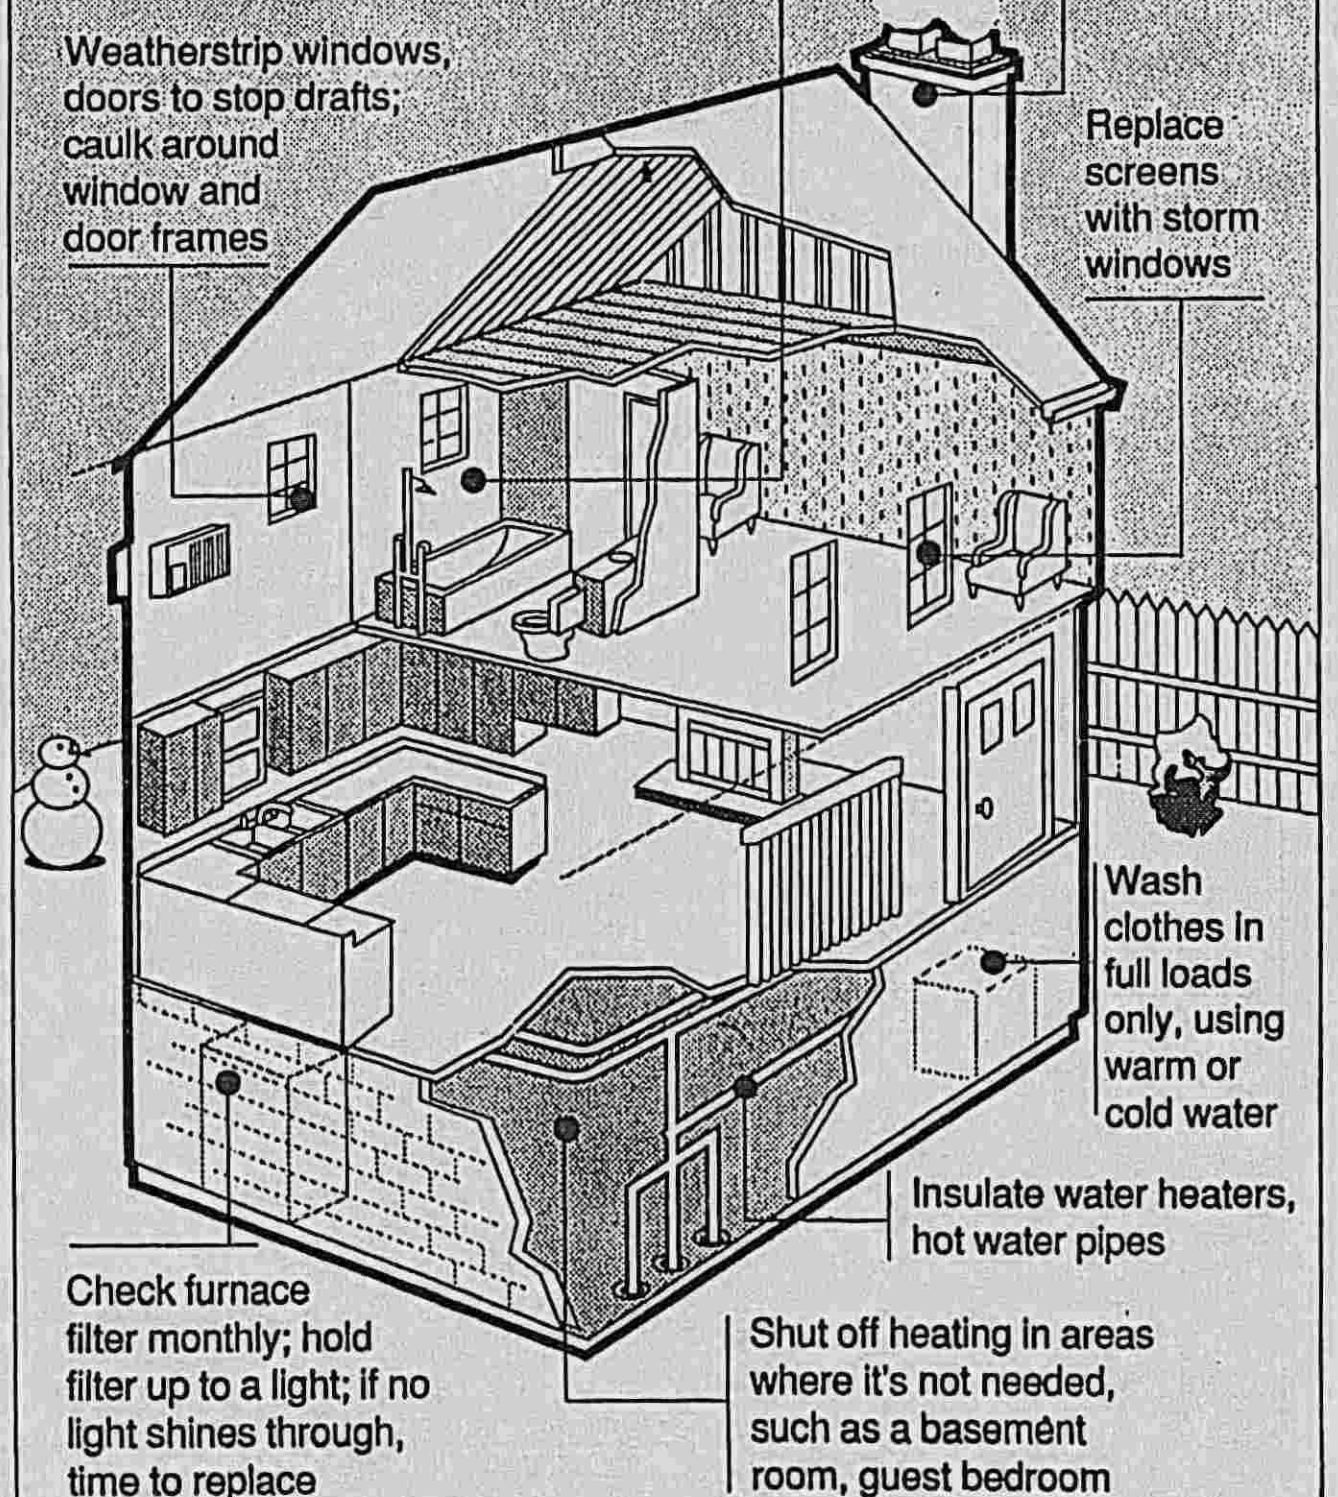

In a well-weatherized home, you should be comfortable at settings of 68°F by day, 60° by night

Take showers instead of baths; baths generally use more water

Fireplaces create drafts; install a damper

Weatherstrip windows, doors to stop drafts; caulk around window and door frames

Replace screens with storm windows

Area Agency on Aging seeks representative

Northeastern Illinois Area Agency on Aging is seeking a Lake County resident to represent Lake County as a volunteer on its Advisory Council. The volunteer position is for the remainder of an unexpired term, until Nov., 1991. The primary qualifications required are a sincere interest in benefiting senior citizens and a desire to make the public aware of the services available to older persons.

Volunteers aged 60 and over are particularly encouraged to apply for this position. Interested persons should contact Charles D. Johnson, executive director of the agency, no later than Jan. 9. Write to P.O. Box 809, Kankakee, Ill. 60901, or phone (815)939-0727 or 800-528-2000.

The Northeastern Illinois Area Agency on Aging is a non-profit organization responsible for developing and coordinating a network of services for older persons throughout an eight county area in northeastern Illinois. The agency informs and advises public and private agencies and the general public of the needs of older persons living in the area, and acts as an advocate on their behalf. The agency serves DuPage, Grundy, Kane, Kankakee, Kendall, Lake, McHenry, and Will Counties.

Health department urges pet shots

The Animal/Rabies Control Program of the Lake County Health Department reminds dog and cat owners to make sure their pets are vaccinated against rabies, both for the animal's safety and for the community's welfare. The Lake County Animal/Rabies Control Ordinance requires that all dogs and cats have a Lake County rabies registration tag attached to their collars as proof of their rabies vaccination status. The registration tag provides proof of vaccination if the animal bites someone or is itself bitten by a rabid animal. In addition, the tag also helps trace ownership if the pet is lost, as the Lake County Health Dept. keeps a file for each registered pet according to tag number.

Many pet owners may not be aware of the importance of rabies vaccinations for their dog or cat. Immunizing pets against rabies helps control the threat of animal rabies being spread to humans. Rabies is a virus that attacks the nervous system. Once symptoms appear, the disease is invariably fatal. According to Dr. Steven R. Potsic, executive director of the Lake County Health Dept., there are two major ways of avoiding the transmission of rabies to humans:

- Avoid contact with animals such as skunks, bats, raccoons and foxes, which have a high prevalence for rabies.

lence for rabies.

- Immunize domestic animals (cats and dogs) to protect them from contracting rabies from wild animals and, thus, avoiding rabies transmission to humans.

Rabies registration tags are available for a fee from the Lake County Health Dept. and from certain municipalities upon presentation of a vaccination certificate (obtained from your veterinarian when the pet is given the rabies vaccine). Pet owners may call the Health Dept. at (708)360-6424 for fee and municipal information.

Students to tour with choir

Six area students are members of the Millikin Univ. Choir. The 47-member group goes on tour Jan. 6 through 13 and will give 13 performances in churches, schools and nursing homes in four Midwest states. The students are Robert Collins and Jason Helfer, both of Buffalo Grove, Brendan McNab of Gurnee, Kristian Klefsad of Hawthorn Woods, Dina Byrd of Lake Villa and Stacey Swan of Northbrook.

Lake County At A Glance

Plan for downtown

MUNDELEIN—With the slump in the real estate market and reluctance of financial institutions to underwrite new projects, conversion of the former Jewel-Osco store to a mini shopping mall has been postponed by former Mayor Colin McRae and his Winchester Development Corp. That has led Trustee Ralph Rohling to make a public appeal for support of a tax incremental finance district to remodel the property and revitalize the downtown area by luring a new food store to the location. He says other village officials are negative toward the idea.

Policy too broad

WAUCONDA — A U.S. District Court judge has ruled that the Wauconda school district's ban on the dissemination of religious materials is too broad and therefore unconstitutional. The ruling was brought about after eighth-grader Megan Hedges was prevented from handing out copies of a religious newspaper on junior high school grounds. The paper, "Issues and Answers," is a Christian organ aimed at young people. The 25-page decision meted out by Judge Paul E. Plunkett stated that school district 118's policy banning all distribution of all religious material was too encompassing.

Increase efficiency

LINDENHURST—Lindenhurst Police, Chief Rich Jablonski expects to increase time on patrol by as much as 50 percent, thanks to computer technology and streamlined reporting procedures. The department enters the new year with a new computer system programmed with up-to-date and easily accessible records and reports. Policy and procedure revisions implemented by Jablonski, further have led to more efficient prisoner processing and reporting through more compact, inclusive reports. Consequently, officers will spend less time in the office and more on the streets.

Watch winter safety

LAKE VILLA—Common sense may help ensure a safe winter. However, when in doubt, Lake Villa Fire Dept. Chief Frank Slazes recommends enlisting the services of professionals, particularly in cases of frozen pipes and chimney inspection. When enjoying winter recreation, caution should be practiced when traversing on frozen lakes.

Ostroga quits board

LIBERTYVILLE—Trustee Robert Ostroga has resigned from the village board after 5-1/2 years. He said the demands of his job as treasurer of Onsrud Cutter Inc. in Libertyville precludes him from attending village meetings on a consistent basis and devoting the necessary time to the job of trustee. Since there are not more than 130 days before the April 2 village election, according to state law, the mayor will appoint someone to fill the remaining 2-1/2 years of Ostroga's term. Mayor JoAnn Eckmann said she does not know if she will select one of the nine candidates for trustee in the spring election.

USG in trouble

LIBERTYVILLE—USG Corp., one of the nation's largest building products manufacturers, which has a large office complex and research facility on Rte. 45, is having financial difficulties. The firm failed to make a $105 million loan payment due Monday and says it will not be able to make interest payments due Jan. 15 on $40 million worth of bonds. USG is attempting to sell part of its Libertyville holdings sandwiched between St. Mary of the Lake seminary and the new location of a Motorola Inc. pocket telephone manufacturing plant.

Long Grove loses

LONG GROVE — The village of Long Grove lost a bid that started in 1987 to annex property that also was wanted by Buffalo Grove. The two villages finally went to court over the matter. The property, which is located at the northwest corner of Arlington Hts. Rd and Rte. 83 was annexed by both villages in 1987. Each village claimed that it had annexed the property first. Long Grove lost the first action in court and appealed. The court recently ruled not to hear the appeal, thus proclaiming Buffalo Grove the victor.

Geick files suit

LAKE ZURICH — Former Lake Zurich Village Administrator Edward Geick has filed a lawsuit against the village. In a news release, Lake Zurich has acknowledged that Geick — who was asked to resign in February of 1989 — has filed for damages because he feels the village "violated certain terms of the separation agreement between Mr. Geick and the village, dated Jan. 31, 1990." Geick charges that by violating the terms of the agreement, the village directly hurt his chances of being hired as Director of the Lake County Stormwater Management Planning Committee.

Shield's moving

SHIELD'S TWP.—The Shield's Twp. office, now located at 777 N. Bank Ln. in Lake Forest, is moving to 191 Deerpath Rd. in Lake Forest. "We're crowded here," said Shield's Twp. Supv. Charles Fitzgerald of the 30-year residence of the township offices. The cost of renting the new office space will be $4,000 per year. "We will be doubling the rent," said Fitzgerald, "but also doubling the space."

Enterprise Zone

ROUND LAKE BEACH—Round Lake Beach is submitting an application to have a part of their village declared an Enterprise Zone. This would entitle the village to incentives that would help encourage private investment in industrial and business development and expansion. A public hearing on the application is tentatively set for Monday, Jan. 15 at 7 p.m. in the village hall.

Gad eyes position

LINCOLNSHIRE—Suzann Gad is seeking election as a Lincolnshire Village Trustee in the April elections. Gad said she is hoping to change the attitudes and image of the village board. "The attitude of the village board has been to try and legislate design and appearance, as opposed to looking at what is best overall for the Village of Lincolnshire," she said.

Clerk resigns

LAKE ZURICH—Mary Hornbuckle, village clerk, has resigned to take a position at Continental Bank. She was appointed to fill a vacancy created by Claudia Barton last January. Sue Santiago, deputy clerk, will assume village clerk responsibilities until a new clerk is elected in April.

A brief Japanese lesson, first, from Ann Morris: "Kokoro means 'private heart,' or 'inner spirit.' Ki means 'tree.' So Kokoroki means 'trees from the heart' or 'soul trees,' if you want to get American about it."

Morris is the slightly quirky owner of Kokoroki Bonsai, 644 Grand Ave. in Waukegan. Asked why an esoteric business like a bonsai store is located in Waukegan, Morris responded bluntly, "There's a treebender's store in Waukegan, because the treebender who owns it lives in Waukegan."

But Morris' clientele finds her, even though they are scattered from Wisconsin to Indiana. Perhaps they come because of the quality of the trees, but they could easily come because of the quality of the owner. Ann Morris minces no words when it comes to her passion, bonsai.

Responding to a customer who received a bonsai and a book on the subject for Christmas, "That book is bunk," Morris carries the book among other bonsai literature. "I'm amassing a collection of bad books on bonsai," she said with a grin. A comment on a bonsai illustration in another book: "These pictures look like trees that auditioned for Walt Disney—and failed."

Another piece of Morris advice to the budding bonsai enthusiast: "Go practice on a piece of shrubbery first. This is something you have to learn by doing." Her comment on fly-by-night bonsai vendors: "There are all these 'mall Gypsies' peddling so-called bonsai that are really just malformed shrubbery."

On the bonsai as a houseplant: "A juniper is not a houseplant. It belongs outside. It can come in to visit for a few days, but it will not survive on a coffee table, or on top of a t.v. Nothing can survive on top of a t.v." And on plants in general: "People think of plants the way they think of veggies: plants are sort of the side-dish of life."

A natural teacher, Morris is also a natural salesperson with a low-key pitch and an eye for detail. She enthuses about a set of carved, vegetable shaped, rosewood boxes she sells, "Look inside! They even carved it to look like the inside of a pea pod! See the spaces where the peas would have been?" But she does not get so carried away she forgets why she has the store. She is selling bonsai. The carved boxes and oriental bric-a-brac fall far behind the real goods.

"Three comments," said Morris, "tell me what sort of customer I'm dealing with. One: 'Why is it so expensive?' This is a person who doesn't know anything yet about bonsai. Two: 'These are very reasonable.' This is a person who has been around, seen, priced, maybe even bought bonsai before. Not a hard-core type, but still in the minors. And three: 'How can you price a tree of this quality so low?' These are the hard-core guys that have been around a long time and play in the big leagues."

Morris plays in a kind of big league herself. She teaches bonsai courses at the Chicago Botanic Garden in Glencoe, as well as at her store and at the Round Lake Area Park Dist., among other places. Morris belongs to the Midwest Bonsai society, which meets on the first Monday of every month at the botanic garden. It was her association with this group, and some courses she volunteered to teach to beginners that led to her other teaching jobs and ultimately the store in Waukegan.

When the botanic garden decided that interest was high enough to warrant a special course on bonsai, the association recommended Morris. She went from there to ultimately opening her own store. And it all began with a postcard.

When Morris was about nine years old her family had a Japanese couple staying with them. When the couple went home, they left behind a "care package" for each member of the family. In Morris' package were some bonsai postcards. "I was inspired," Morris remembered. "I'd never tried to anything like that."

She had already tried to miniaturize various houseplants with limited success. "I'm a confirmed tinkerer, a veteran of the tuna fish can - pie tin school of the '50's," she said. "And I love miniatures like model railroads, model cars, all that neat stuff."

Eventually, by trial and error, she grew somewhat proficient, and found others with similar interest. This wasn't easy to do in Indiana, where she grew up. "It was a real mutant idea," she said, laughing. "I mean, people in Indiana think in terms of agriculture, not horticulture. People think of things growing in nice straight lines, not all these curvy bends," and her hand swept out to include her store full of "curvy bends"

'People think of plants the way they think of veggies: plants are sort of the side-dish of life.—Ann Morris, owner of Kokoroki Bonsai'

Like many plant enthusiasts she talks to her trees while working on them. "Yes, baby," she croons, checking the soil of a tree by the front counter, "I hope your new pot comes soon."

She says she is not a patient person, this woman who will take up to five years to create a single bonsai. But she is endlessly patient with customers and bonsai enthusiasts of all degrees.

Even though she knows a customer will not buy anything, she will spend a half-hour or more giving free tips on how to care for a bonsai, and steering the innocent away from sham products and false claims.

"Don't get that crap," she said of a certain chain-store brand of fertilizer. "All they do is get seconds of bad batches of top name products and slap their label on it, and you never know what you're getting."

She will steer an over-eager, inexperienced customer away from the expensive, difficult to grow bonsai and try to persuade them to try the less expensive, hardier varieties which, she says, are more "forgiving" of an amateur's mistakes. There remains the impression, however, that she is doing it more for the plant's sake than the customer's.

And she is not forgiving, herself, of those who try to drape bonsai-raising in mystery. "Too many people are lying too much," she explodes. "There's too much mythology surrounding bonsai, as if it's something mysterious, and it isn't. All it is is pure, straight-line, applied horticulture. But with the increasing, widespread interest in bonsai, there are a lot of opportunists conning people into thinking that, to raise bonsai, you have to be Japanese or a mutant. And it's not true."

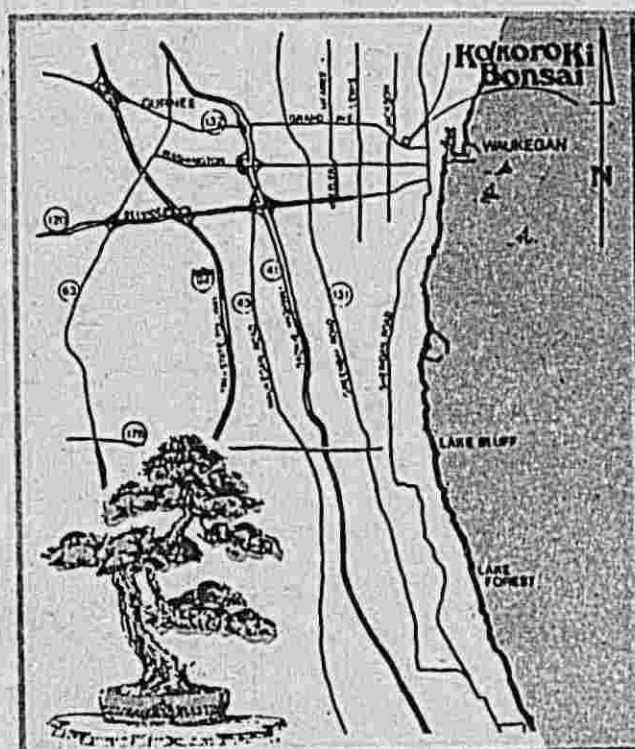

She gives what she calls the definitive definition of a bonsai: "A bonsai is a woody tree, shrub, or vine, living in a pot, that has been styled by a person to express the poetic beauty of an ancient tree living in nature."

Her own view? "I think trees are fascinating, the stuff of life. They survive in spite of us, and become more beautiful as they get older. They have no shame in their scars. It's just, 'Here I am.' And they live longer than we do." She laughs briefly, this forty-something shopkeeper with the quirky attitude, then her face grows soft.

"They're just beautiful."

'More for less'

Bannockburn Executive Offices Suite 350, a shared office complex has become an economical alternative for small and new companies.

CLC helps secure small business loans in 1991

The Small Business Development Center at the College of Lake County helped secure $450,863 in loans for area small businesses in the fiscal year 1991, according to SBDC director Art Cobb.

A total of 144 clients received small business consulting or assistance during the fiscal year. The center assisted with getting eleven new businesses started and six businesses expanded. Figures show that SBDC involvement helped create 48 new jobs and retain 43 other jobs in the area last year. Among the new ventures that sought SBDC assistance last year included food, retail and manufacturing industries.

"We're a valuable resource for small business owners and entrepreneurs," said Cobb. He noted that a total of 59 people have participated in the three small business workshops held during the past year.

Many services are free, with some others such as workshops and seminars offered for a nominal fee.

The SBDC is located in the Center for Economic Development at the CLC main campus in Grayslake. For more information about the Small Business Development Center, contact Cobb at (708)223-6601 extension 516.

Tenants find 'less is more'

In a cautious economy, like this one, "less is more" for many entrepreneurial office tenants.

JoAnn Whalen, vice president and general manager of Bannockburn Executive Offices (Suite 350), reports that the 10,000-square-foot shared-office complex in the 130,000-square-foot Bannockburn Executive Plaza has become a convenient and economical alternative for start-up and smaller companies on the North Shore. The complex is a venture of Dolan Associates, owner/manager of Bannockburn Executive Plaza at the four-way interchange of Interstate 94 and Illinois Route 22 (Half Day Road).

"Many entrepreneurs are choosing a happy medium between a long-term lease in an office building and the less-efficient 'cottage corporation' at home, and that happy medium is shared offices, which offer more for less," said Ms. Whalen.

Outplaced executives caught in corporate takeovers and downsizing enterprises also are availing themselves of shared offices, which provide the staff and technical advantages of a traditional office without the expense.

Bannockburn Executive Offices, for example, assures all tenants of the following: a private office; qualified telephonist/receptionist; conference rooms with projection equipment, VCRs, television monitors and other accessories.

Also available are full-time secretarial help, word and data processing, fax, arrangements for printing and bulk mailings, office supplies, shipping and courier arrangements, messenger service, notary public and catering.

"Tenants get a prestigious Bannockburn address and all Class A amenities, including the in-building Fig Leaf restaurant for lunch, a travel agency and the adjoining College Park Athletic Club," said Whalen. The affordable rents range from $400 per month for an inside office up to $1,400 for a large double-exposure office.

In its six-year existence, Bannockburn Executive Offices has attracted a diversity of local entrepreneurs and national companies starting local offices. Most tenants live in suburbs in and around Bannockburn. Many have grown to the point where they needed more room, and have signed long-term leases elsewhere in Dolan's building.

For more information about shared offices or the Corporate Identify Plan at Bannockburn Executive Offices, telephone JoAnn Whalen at (708)945-0200.

Evergreen plays animals' advocate

by GREG MILLER
Lakeland Newspapers

Sandi Scott yearns for the wildlife. No, Scott's not a party animal, but she and her group of volunteers are chief advocates for the animals indigenous to this neck of the woods.

Scott is the founder and president of Evergreen Wildlife Conservation Society Inc., a 12-year-old, non-profit group that's working to preserve a way of life for the area's real natives.

"We're a small group," Scott said. "We're mostly funded by individuals who send us $5 or $10 a year."

At that rate, it takes quite a few donations to allow Evergreen to perform one of its main functions — the rehabilitation of injured and orphaned animals.

Evergreen nurses 300-400 animals a year. The cost per animal varies, Scott said.

"The cost depends on the type of injury. A broken leg that needs a pin can cost $300. It cost $500 to keep one very badly injured raccoon alive through the season. And special diets can be very expensive."

Evergreen gets its four-legged patients through referrals from veterinarians and callers on its hotline.

"If someone has a badly injured animal, we send them right to the vet," Scott said. "We pick it up from there and nurse the animal back to health after the vet has done the necessary work on them."

"We have several vets who are strategically located who cooperate with us. We have vets all over the place who refer people to us."

Scott said spring is the season when the largest quantity of wildlife is found either injured or orphaned.

"Every spring we run a sponsor-an-orphan program, and we send people photos of the animals they've sponsored. Basically, that's what keeps us going. People seem to like that the most — they get to see the animal they're sponsoring."

Another arm of Evergreen is education. The group offers information on veterinarians available in the area, the kind of feed necessary for different types of wildlife — among other problems.

"We have people ask how to get a rac-

'People need to accept the animals in their area as part of the area.' — Sandi Scott, founder and president of Evergreen coon out of their chimney or skunks and possums out from their foundations," Scott said.

An attitude adjustment is the most important part of education, Scott said.

"The important thing is to educate people on how to live and learn with the animals around them. If they can learn to live with civilization, civilization must adapt to live with them."

"We never find animals out in the woods — they take care of themselves. It's always when they come in contact with civilization that they have problems."

"People need to accept the animals in their area as part of the area."

Scott said it's already too late for some indigenous critters.

"The river otter is gone. They're found only in southern Illinois now, and they used to run this whole range. They're close to being on the endangered-species list. And there used to be bobcats, too."

"There are over 20 endangered species or species that have totally disappeared. They only ones who seem to be able to stay with us are the ones who can adapt to being around civilization."

One bright spot for Scott is the re-emergence of the coyote.

"The coyote is coming back," Scott said. "The Lake County Forest Preserve people have seen them along the Des Plaines River."

Population thinning — for the good of man and beast — is a controversial issue in the area, Scott said.

"It's a real hot issue in the Lake County area. There's overpopulation in areas where no hunting is allowed. Some think hunting is the solution. There are others who think the animals should be relocated."

Evergreen's rehabilitation facility in McHenry is not open to the public.

"We don't want the animals to lose their fear of people before we put them back into the wild," Scott said.

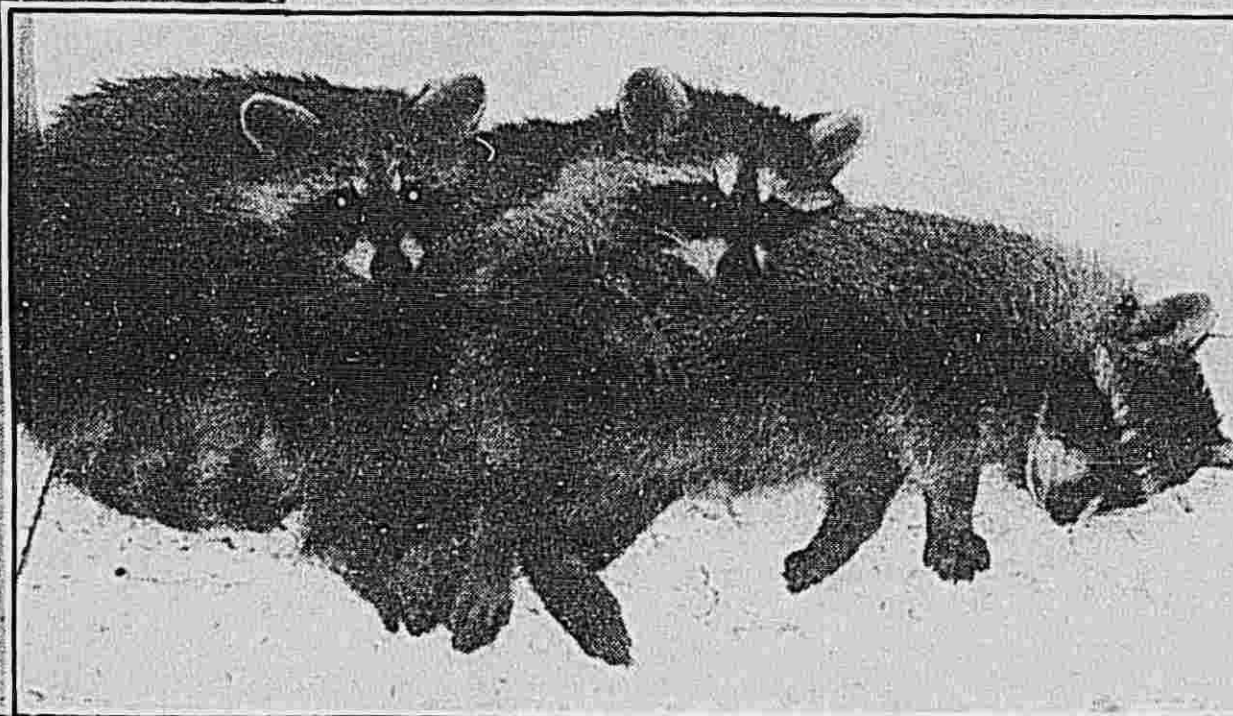

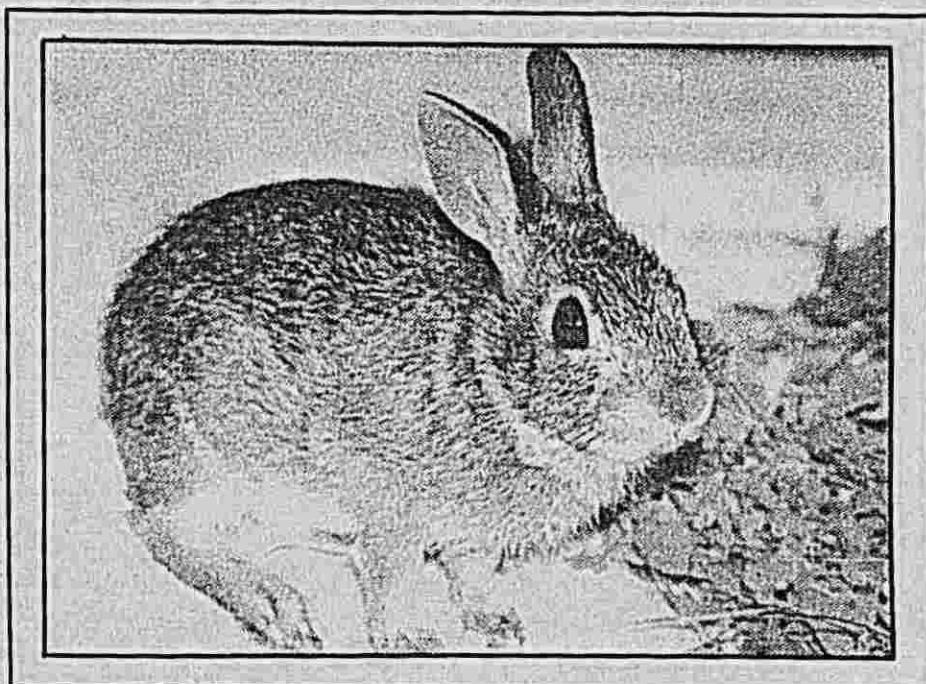

If you've foolishly purchased an exotic pet you can't contend with, don't try to unload them at Evergreen.

"We get calls from people to take exotic pets, but all we can do is try to refer them to organizations like zoos who can help," Scott explained.

Officers in Evergreen include Edna Riley, vice president; Jo Mulligan, secretary; and directors Dr. Nancy Leiting, D.V.M.; Barbara Schlenz and Dawn Wagner.

An answering service will take calls on the Evergreen hotline, (708) 459-9440, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday. Calls are returned promptly.

For brochures or additional information, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Evergreen, Box 417, Lake Zurich 60047.

Patience, patients

Fair association elects officers

The Lake County Fair Assn. held its annual meeting at the Lake County Fairgrounds recently with 87 voting members present and numerous guests. The following were elected to a three year team of office:

Frank Brock, Zion; Jack Roth, Libertyville; and Ron Weidner, Round Lake. At the board of directors meeting held Dec. 3, an election by ballot was held to determine the officers of the Lake County Fair Board.

The following were elected for the year 1991: Walter Krumrey, president; Eugene Kulin, vice president; David Bonner, secretary; and Ron Weidner, treasurer.

Also elected to the executive committee to serve with the above officers for one year term was Harry Dahms, Sr., director. The remaining directors of the board are: Frank Brock, John McNeill, Burnell Russell and John Roth.

The Fox Lake Police Explorers wish to express a special THANKS to the following businesses who helped to make Christmas extra special for the folks at Lakeland Apts.

film review

Robert Redford and director Sydney Pollack have had a great screen relationship for years.

This dynamic duo has another hit in the almost perfect "Havana," the story of a card shark looking for his big score in the days immediately preceding Castro's takeover of Cuba and the 1958 death knell of Havana's famous decadent night life.

This is an older, worn, but still attractive Redford that ends up in a romance with a married lady with completely opposite moral and political views.

The lovely Lena Olin plays the part of his paramour, the wife of a Cuban rebel in this drama full of "Casablanca" memorabilia.

Although the script has the players seemingly talking too much at times, we give this one five stars.

be there

On Saturday, Jan. 12, at 8 p.m., admirers of the genius of Orson Welles can have a posthumous visit with him when Ronnie Welsh recreates this great personality in "A Visit With Mr. Welles" on stage at the Woodstock Opera House.

If you don't mind that short trip to McHenry County to take in some more wonderful entertainment slated for the Opera House, don't miss the Los Angeles Chamber Ballet with David Cooney in Stanley Holden's "Dimitri," based on Woody Allen's "A Guide to Some Lesser Ballets." The Chamber Ballet will be on the Opera House stage for two performances at 2 and 8 p.m., on Saturday, Jan. 26. Call (815) 338-5300 for more information.

Andres Dinner Theatre in Richmond will open its winter theatrical season with "Norman Is That You?" the first offering on weekends in January.

At the College of Lake County, the school's theater department is rehearsing its spring mainstage production, "The HOT L Baltimore," due to go on stage in the building 5 theater, at the College in Grayslake, at 8 p.m., on March 8, 9, 14 and 15.

Last minute additions to the list of worthwhile New Year's celebrations coming up includes the party at the Colony House in Trevor Wis. which will feature the Glen Anderson Trio with your holiday dinner.

Opens at Goodman

The Kronos Quartet will open the JAM/Goodman New Music Series for one performance only at 7:30 p.m., on Saturday, Jan. 19, at the Park West. The concert will feature the area premieres of seven new works written for the quartet. From left are, Hank Dutt, Joan Jeanreneaud, David Harrington and John Sherba.

Ice show Disney skates into the area, starts Jan. 29

Children and adults alike will be fascinated at Roger Rabbit, Chip 'N' Dale, the Rescue Rangers, and the Little Mermaid, as well as Mickey Mouse (in outer space) as they arrive at The Chicago Stadium on Jan. 29, performing on ice through Feb. 10. Tickets at $7, $9.50 and $11.50, are now on sale for the star-studded, two-hour, live family arena show, produced by international entertainment impresario, Kenneth Field.

Audiences will have the chance to see the largest live gathering of Disney favorites, along with a cast of talented ice skaters, in Walt Disney's "World On Ice." Tickets are available at the Chicago Stadium box office and all Ticketron outlets.

Three Lake County students to view in Young Artists race

On Sunday, Jan. 13, 1991, three Lake County high school students will compete in the Waukegan Symphony Orchestra's Eleventh Annual Young Artists Competition, under the direction of Richard Hynson. The performance will take place at 4 p.m. at Melba Wixom Auditorium at East High School, located on Jackson St. in Waukegan between Washington and Glen Rock.

After auditions in October, three finalists were selected to perform for first, second, and third place cash prizes at the annual Young Artists Competition. The program includes the first movement of Mozart's "Violin Concerto No. 5 in A Major" performed by Steven Cheng of Libertyville, the third movement of Beethoven's "Piano Concerto No. 1" by Jennie Ng of Lake Forest, C. M. v. Weber's Concerto for Clarinet by Eileen Preuss of Hawthorn Woods, and Rossini's "Barber of Seville" Overture and Mozart's "Prague" Symphony performed by the Waukegan Symphony Orchestra.

Special guests of the Young Artists Competition will be students of Laura Stevens from the Suzuki program at Andrew Cooke Magnet School in Waukegan.

Cheng is a freshman at Libertyville

High School. He currently studies with David Taylor of the CSO. At age three, Cheng began studying the violin and has since won several area competitions including first place in the Children's Academy of Performing Arts, Mount Prospect and first place in the Music Festival in Honor of Confucius, Chicago.

Ng is a junior at Lake Forest High School and currently studies with Carol Honigberg. She is very active in her school as well as the community. Her awards include first place at the NSMTA Piano Competition, senior division and the Lake Forest High School Honors Competition. She has received superior ratings at the Illinois High School Assoc. in 1990 and 1989 for piano solo. She also received a silver medal at the NSMTA Sonatina/Sonata Piano Festival. She is active with the Lake Forest High School jazz band and orchestra and the North Shore Chinese Church Disciples of Christ.

Preuss is a junior at Adlai Stevenson High School in Prairie View. Her teachers include Greg Smith (CSO), Larry Combs (CSO) and, currently, Carolee Smith (Lake Forest Symphony). Preuss is principal clarinet with the Chicago Youth Symphony Orchestra and is also involved in the Woodwind Quintet. She has also been a member of the DuPage Youth Symphony Orchestra, the North Shore Youth Orchestra, and the Metropolitan Youth Symphony Orchestra. For the past four years, she has participated in the Illinois Summer Youth Music camp at the University of Illinois, Champaign/Urbana. This summer Preuss will attend the Interlochen Music Inst.

The Young Artists Competition was started during the 1980-81 season of the Waukegan Symphony Orchestra. Changes have been made over the past eleven years and currently the competition is open to any student up through a senior in high school going to school or residing in Lake or McHenry Counties or Kenosha County, Wis. The cash prizes awarded to the finalists ($500 first prize, $250 second prize, and $100 third prize) are provided by the Fuqua Memorial Fund, a fund started by Ellis and Madeline Fuqua of Waukegan in 1982.

Tickets for the competition are $6 each ($4 for WSOC season ticket holders) and are available at the WSOC office, 39 Jack Benny Dr. in Bowen park in Waukegan, at the door, or by calling (708)360-4742. Group discounts are available.

Northbrook Theatre presents comedy, 'Run for your Wife'

The Northbrook Theatre will present "Run for Your Wife," the weekends of Jan. 18 to Feb. 3. All performances will take place at the Northbrook Park District's Leisure Center Auditorium, 3323 Walters.

Written by Ray Cooney, this comedy is a hilarious example of that time-honored genre, the British, romantic farce.

Northbrook resident Lee Foreman is directing the show, with Sue Goldstein, another Northbrook resident, serving as assistant director. Andrea Sultan is the producer of "Run For Your Wife." Tickets for the production are $8 in advance and $9 at the door. For additional ticket and performance information, call the Northbrook Park District's Leisure Center Performing Arts Office at (708)291-2367.

1991: Form a plan to minimize waste of limited natural resources

With Santa behind us and a new year ahead, it's time to make some personal plans for 1991. Because we appreciate the outdoors and recognize its values to our survival, one of our first promises may be the formation of long term plans designed to avoid wasting nature's limited resources for any reason. Just as important as conserving natural resources is to avoid polluting air, water and soil. As they become useless, so do we.

The personal use of our time is a good area for attention. More time outdoors for ourselves and our family with concentration on training the kids; ours or anyone's. Time is one commodity we all share equally. So, it's up to us to get our fair share and sprinkle it with kindness, compassion and confidence. Think pluses and good things will be happening in larger numbers during 1991.

I quote author Kim Stafford who says, "To find peace, one must hold within themselves the heart of forests and streams. Not only be in the forest but have the forest in yourself. The way of seeing things brings as much delight as the things seen."

This may be emphasized by pet owners who give tender loving care and consideration to their domestic wildlife. Not because of what they are, but due to the way they seem to them. 90 percent of all pets get talked to, 65 percent get Christmas presents and a quarter of them get birthday parties.

This gets back to the way we look at nature. We need a greater appreciation of what it means to us. Make this the year of realization that ugly trash is also harmful to wildlife while it spoils our recreational areas. Tangled fishing line, six-pack holders, pulltabs plus plastic bags, paper cups and plates kill thousands of waterfowl, wildlife, fish and birds every day.

Travelers who enjoy Canadian recreation may be surprised to learn Illinois is Canada's third largest trading partner and last year they exchanged nearly $10.5 billion business dollars. That makes Canada, Illinois' prime export recipient, better than all of Asia or any European country.

Tourism is a large portion of that business exchange. In 1988, 260,000 Canadian visited us while we sent 728,000 to Canada to sample their selection of outdoor pleasures. Fishing and hunting were high on the preference list.

The Chicago Boat, Sports and RV show will drop anchor at McCormick Place on Jan. 16, for five days in port. Over 900 boats of all types and sizes will be displayed.

Shoppers may plan for summer activities which include boats, RVs, accessories and recreational destinations. Fishing will be featured with related watercraft and angling gear that can be tried in casting ponds. A series of fishing clinics will update techniques with new ideas and equipment.

If leisure plans include land transportation, over 300 recreational vehicles from trailers to campers and on to self contained motor homes may be examined. In which case current information from resorts and tourism offices of both U.S. and Canada are on hand to offer suggestions. A growing interest will include radio controlled model boat and RV races--new for '91.

Show hours are 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. and it closes Sunday, Jan. 20 at 7 p.m. Admission is $6 and $2 for kids 6-12.

Questions most asked about a cruise

by JIM WARNKEN, PRESIDENT
NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

Not all that long ago cruising was a luxury affordable only to people with names like Rockefeller. Today, however, almost anyone can indulge in the ultimate vacation!

Following are questions most often asked about cruising.

Will I get seasick?

Possible, but unlikely. Cruise ships are equipped with stabilizers which eliminate roll. Still concerned? Your doctor can prescribe a drug contained in a patch worn behind the ear. A new item on the market is a band worn on the wrist which presses on acupuncture points.

Do I have to pay for entertainment?

Cruise ships offer a variety of shows ranging from top talent to the Las Vegas style. Admission to all shows is free.

How good is the food on a cruise?

This is an area where cruise lines try to outdo each other! Most of the food is of the gourmet variety and all you can eat. Not only are there up to ten meals a day, but room service is available and free!

Oh, exercise classes are also offered.

Will I get bored on a cruise?

Do you like gambling, golf, trap shooting, swimming, ping-pong, duty-free shopping, games, movies or parties? And that's before you even reach a port! If you want to be bored, you certainly can do that, too.

What kind of clothing should I bring?

Casual attire is the order of the day. A suit coat for men and one fancy dress for the ladies is suggested for the captain's cocktail party. On other nights, casual dress is fine even for dinner. One suggestion. Bring a pair of rubber-soled sneakers for use on deck.

I'll leave you with some nautical language. Ships don't have doors, they have hatches. The walls are bulkheads. If you walk to the back of the ship, you are going aft, towards the front is forward. When you leave the ship you disembark.

BRIDAL '91

The '90s wedding: A blend of tradition and individuality

As wedding styles evolve, formal ceremonies are still in fashion. One of the most interesting trends of the mid to late '80s was the renewed interest in marriage, and weddings in particular. As the free-form, do-your-own-thing weddings of the '70s, with their barefoot brides and spontaneous vows, fell out of favor, the pendulum swung the other way.

The wedding style of the extravagant '80s was characterized by formality, ornateness, and tremendous expense. In these more practical and frugal days of the early '80s, however, the emphasis on tradition remains, but today's weddings are a bit less grand.

A couple today is more likely to have a wedding that, in scale and cost, is in line with their own lifestyle and budget, rather than hosting a fantasy extravaganza with a cast of thousands that incurs tremendous debt for themselves or their parents.

But even if today's average couples choose to spend their money on a down payment on a house or apartment rather than on a huge wedding, they still choose to commemorate their vows with a traditional ceremony and a reception.

The majority of couples still have a formal ceremony. Most of these ceremonies take place in a church or synagogue in the afternoon or evening.

This emphasis on tradition and formality means that, as her mother and grandmother did when planning their own weddings, the bride spends a great deal of time reading etiquette books and agonizing over such matters as whether it is really necessary to have engraved invitations.

But with the dramatic lifestyle changes that have occurred in the past couple of decades, today's bride faces etiquette puzzles that her predecessors never had to worry about. It's likely that the bride or groom, or both, has parents or even grandparents who have divorced and remarried, with stepparents and stepchildren added to the complicated family picture. Also, with so many second and third marriages taking place, many couples bring children of their own to the new marriage.

And, in fact, today's weddings are characterized by their blending of traditional elements with the personal touches that accommodate the lifestyles, needs and dreams of each unique couple.

(Working with your photographer)

Whether you've chosen a nonprofessional or professional photographer, you can't just tell him when and where the wedding is and leave him to his own devices—not if you expect to get the wedding photos you'd like. You'll have to work with him so that he understands exactly what you want.

Here are some suggested shots that can be found in many traditional wedding albums.

Before the ceremony:

- Bride with bouquet
- Bride's mother or maid of honor helping with veil
- Bride with parents
- Bride with Bridesmaids
- Bride with grandparents/godparents
- Bride leaving home
- Groom alone
- Groom with best man
- Groomsmen getting boutonnieres

At the ceremony:

- Guests outside the church
- Ushers escorting special guests

- Bride and father going into church
- Parents being seated
- Soloist/or organist
- Groom and groomsmen at altar
- Bride and father waiting for procession to begin
- Ring ceremony
- The kiss
- Bride and groom coming down the aisle
- Bride and groom on church steps
- Bride and groom in back of car

At the reception:

- Bride and groom arriving
- Whole wedding party together
- Greeting guests
- Receiving line
- Toast
- Guests eating
- Bride and groom cutting cake
- Bride and groom eating cake
- Throwing the bouquet
- Throwing the rice
- Saying good-bye to guests in 'street clothes'

Tying Bows For Church Pews

To make your own beautiful pew bows, allow ten yards of ribbon for each bow. Start in the middle, fold the ribbon back and forth, turning it over in the center so the right side is showing.

Tie the center tightly with florist wire, leaving 5 inches of wire exposed to fasten the bow to the pew.

Once the bow is secure, pull each loop of the ribbon forward, while twisting it so that the loops face forward. Let the remaining ribbon stream forward and downward.

This bow is puffy and pretty and can be embellished with extra flowers and greens.

We're experts at personalizing flowers to individual tastes and budgets. Whether you're having an intimate ceremony or lavish affair, we can accommodate your needs. When it comes to your wedding flowers, we'll do everything but toss the bouquet.

Special Ideas for that Special Buffet Table

by Randee Rian

Lakeland Newspapers

Eating and drinking with friends and family at a wedding reception is more than fun; it's traditional. Careful planning can guarantee a reception that's merry - without exceeding the limits of a sensible budget. A buffet of finger foods is always an easy serving option, informal and affordable for your menu.

Chicken Bites

Nice, hot tidbit of chicken meat rolled in cracker crumbs.

- 4 chicken breasts, skinned and boned
- 1 cup finely crushed round buttery crackers (about 24)
- 1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese
- 1/4 cup finely chopped walnuts
- 1 tsp. dried thyme leaves
- 1 tsp. dried basil leaves
- 1/4 tsp. pepper
- 1/2 cup butter, melted

Cover 2 cookie sheets with aluminum foil. Cut chicken into 1-inch pieces. Mix cracker crumbs, Parmesan cheese, walnuts, thyme, basil and pepper.

Heat oven to 400 degrees. Dip chicken pieces into melted butter, then into crumb mixture. Place chicken pieces about 1/2 inch apart on cookie sheets. Bake uncovered until golden brown, 20 to 25 minutes.

Makes about 72 appetizers.

Sweet-Sour Cocktail Meatballs

The sweet-sour sauce and meatballs are a great combination sure to please your guests.

Meatballs:

- 10 ounce can pineapple chunks, drained, reserving liquid
- 3/4 cup dry bread crumbs
- 1/8 tsp. garlic powder
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- 1/2 pound pork
- 1 pound ground beef
- 1 small green pepper, cut into 1/2 inch pieces
- 1 small tomato, cut into wedges

Sweet-Sour Sauce

- 1 1/4 cup sugar

- 2 Tbls. cornstarch
- 1 tsp. chicken-flavor instant bouillon
- 1 cup liquid (remaining pineapple liquid plus water)

- 1/2 cup ketchup
- 1/2 cup vinegar
- 1 garlic clove, minced

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Measure 1/3 cup of reserved liquid (pineapple); set remaining liquid aside. In large bowl, combine 1/3 cup pineapple liquid, bread crumbs and garlic powder; blend well. Add egg and ground meats; mix well. Shape into 1 inch balls; place on ungreased 15x10x1 inch baking pan. Bake at 375 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes or until browned and thoroughly baked.

In medium saucepan, combine sugar, cornstarch and bouillon. Add remaining sauce ingredients. Cook and stir over medium-heat until thickened and bubbly. Add pineapple chunks and green pepper; cook until thoroughly heated. Using slotted spoon, transfer hot meatballs to 2 quart casserole or serving dish. Spoon warm green pepper mixture over meatballs; mix gently. Garnish with tomato wedges.

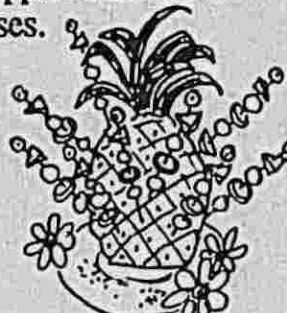

Makes about 72 meatballs.

Fruit on Skewers

If these fresh fruits aren't available, use apple chunks, banana slices and canned chunked pineapple. This can be served with a tray of your favorite cheeses.

- 1 small honeydew melon
- 1 medium papaya
- 1/2 pineapple
- 1 pint strawberries
- 3/4 cup white rum
- 1/4 cup honey
- 30 wooden skewers (about 6 inches long)

Scoop out melon and papaya with melon ball cutter to make 1 inch balls. Cut pineapple into 1 inch chunks. Remove green stems from strawberries. Place fruit in plastic bag. Mix rum and honey; pour over fruit. Secure top of bag and refrigerate 4 to 5 hours, turning bag occasionally. To serve, drain; place 1 honeydew melon ball, 1 papaya ball, 1 pineapple chunk and 1 strawberry on each skewer. Makes 30 appetizers.

Mushroom Croustades

Creamy mushroom-shallot filling served in oven toasted bread cups. Pretty and tasty.

Croustades

- 24 slices fresh, thin-sliced white bread
- 3 Tbls. very soft butter

Filling

- 4 Tbls. butter
- 3 Tbls. shallots, finely chopped
- 1/2 pound mushrooms, finely chopped
- 2 Tbls. flour
- 1 cup heavy cream
- pinch salt
- dash pepper
- butter for topping
- pinch cayenne
- 1 Tbls. fresh parsley, finely chopped
- 1 1/2 Tbls chives, finely chopped
- 1/2 tsp. lemon juice
- 2 Tbls. grated Parmesan cheese

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Coat the insides of 24 small muffin tins with 3 Tbls. soft butter. Cut 3" rounds from the bread and place them carefully into the tins, molding the bread to the tin to form the little cup. Bake the croustades for about 10 minutes, or until lightly brown on rims and outsides. Remove from tins, and cool or freeze for future use.

Chop shallots and mushrooms very fine. In a large pan slowly melt 4 Tbls. butter and add shallots. Stir briefly in butter and add mushrooms. Mix well, stir occasionally and cook about 15 minutes or until moisture has evaporated. Remove pan from heat and stir in flour. Make sure flour has been well stirred into the mixture. Pour cream into mixture, return to heat and bring to boil, stirring constantly. As it thickens turn down heat to simmer and cook a minute or two to remove the taste of flour. Remove pan from heat and add seasonings. Stir well. Place mixture in bowl to cool. Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Fill croustades and sprinkle each with a few grains of cheese. Dot with a speck of butter and place on a cookie sheet. Heat for 10 minutes in the oven. Makes 24.

Planning the new weekend wedding

Today's bride rarely marries the boy next door. As the age of the average bride increases to 27 years, so does her opportunity to meet her fiancé through college or career. It's more likely that she's from Baltimore, he's from Tucson, and they have friends and relatives scattered at all points in between.

What's the best way to celebrate the merging of these two lifestyles? A party that lasts all weekend!

The "long weekend wedding" encourages out-of-town guests to make the trip and allows the bride and groom, as well as the guests, time to visit with people they rarely see.

The weekend wedding goes beyond the traditional ceremony and reception to include a series of dinners, brunches and barbecues, as well as sports and sightseeing events.

"The focal point of these weddings is not the wedding night. Instead, it is the joining together of two families, an intensive experience that may be teamed up with an anniversary, a birthday party, or other family celebrations.

How can you plan a weekend wedding?

•Think up activities you'll enjoy. Would a mutual hobby provide a framework for the weekend?

Your gourmet club could prepare a feast that caters creative cuisine from Friday evening to Sunday afternoon. Are high school friends coming? Stage a Friday night sock hop complete with rented juke box.

Weekend fun might include a softball game (bride's team vs. groom's team), sailing races, a kite-flying competition, or a pool party.

•Let others help. Be careful not to burden yourselves with too many responsibilities.

The bride's brother might organize a Frisbee match or the groom's father might get his family together for Saturday breakfast.

Your bridesmaids might host a softball game or cocktail party in your home.

•Pick a home base. Many hotels offer substantial rate reductions for a group. Each guest will pay for hotel rooms and travel expenses, but it's more fun if everyone's staying in the same place, so you could help by reserving blocks of rooms.

Ask if the hotel will throw in a complimentary "hospitality suite" where your guests can snack and mingle between activities.

See if something special—a card and box of chocolates—could be placed in each room.

•Spread the word. How can you inform guests of the weekend's activities? A printed card, enclosed with your invitation, might specify the host, location and time for each event. Guests can then determine which activities they'd like to attend.

Sending a follow-up form letter could update plans for activities, including clothes and equipment needed, and a list of who's coming or needs a ride. The letter's might be titled, "Bob and Diane's Marriage Marathon: April 19 to 21, 1991," might appear on t-shirts later.

Planning a weekend wedding allows you more time to spend with each guest than you'll have on your wedding day. Keeping activities simple will leave you free to enjoy the fun.

RINGS: Love's Everlasting Symbol

Diamonds, so the slogan goes, are forever. And gold is pretty permanent too. So the more you know about both, the more likely you are to own a ring you can be proud of. There is no substitute for a reliable, reputable jeweler when selecting your rings.

There are basically three different metals to choose from - gold, platinum and palladium. Four basics to look for when selecting your diamond are color, clarity, cut and carat. The clearer the diamond, the greater the value.

What sort of rings should you buy? Obviously, the choice is almost limitless whether your criterion is price, style or metal content. But keep this notion in mind. When the subject is wedding or engagement rings, it really is the thought that counts. But what you can truly afford. You can always buy something fancier later.

Planning a romantic honeymoon

Those hard to find vacation spots where newlyweds (or those that want to feel that way!), can enjoy the kind of time together about which lovers dream and fantasize, offers some tips for planning that most special of trips—the honeymoon.

•Talk honestly with your partner about what your dream of the "perfect honeymoon" is. Don't set yourself up for disappointment by assuming your partner's dream is the same as yours.

•This is supposed to be your time as a couple to relax and enjoy each other. Make sure the destination you choose is one that encourages privacy and provides all the services you expect.

•Do your homework! Researching a romantic honeymoon hideaway can be great fun. Read periodicals and guides published by accredited travel writers.

• Know realistically your budget and work within it. You don't need to start your marriage with a financial pinch. A "romantic hideaway" is defined by the atmosphere—not the price tag.

•Allow yourself ample travel time. Don't rush from your guests to make a plane. Plan on spending the first night within easy travel distance of the site of the wedding. And, when there are travel delays—relax. People in love can find airport terminals very romantic.

•Once the official honeymoon is over, keep your marriage fresh by taking little mini-honeymoons on weekends, over vacations—or across town on any week night. Every couple needs time away from the day-to-day world in a "romantic hideaway" of their own.

TIPS FOR THE OLDER BRIDE

Anyone who believes that all brides are young and blushing should consider these facts: Today, one fifth of all women getting married for the first time are over 25. Of these, one third are in their thirties, forties, or older.

Whatever their reasons for delaying marriage—whether to pursue a profession or simply to live independently a for awhile—once they do decide to wed, these older brides generally have this questions: "What kind of wedding is right at my age?"

Experts give the following advice for this group of brides:

• Many older brides prefer small ceremonies with only family and close friends attending, but it's perfectly okay to choose any size ceremony you like. If you're like most older brides, you'll have only a maid or matron of honor, rather than a whole procession of bridesmaids, but again this is up to you. In either case, don't overlook the possibility of asking young relatives to be flower girls or ring bearers.

• What about the question of being "given away"?
This ritual can easily be omitted if it makes you feel uncomfortable. But if you would like to be given away and your father is not alive or able to do so, feel free to ask any male relative or usher to perform the role.

Overtime win highlights tourney for Mundelein

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

Everyone's first day on the job should be like Cory Kirking's.

Donning the Mundelein basketball jersey for the first time, the junior made a key turn around jump shot which sent the Mustangs to a 70-67 overtime win over Round Lake in the Hampshire Holiday Classic.

"In the first half, I thought I was a little tentative, but the guys got me settled down," Kirking said.

"He called me and said, 'coach, I have a decision to make.' I told him to make all the arrangements because I did not want to be a part of it," Mundelein Coach Dennis Kessel said.

The Mustangs would go on to finish fourth in the Hampshire tourney for the second straight year. They challenged Conant and Mt. Carmel before falling after the win over Round Lake.

Kirking, who finished with 13 points, was not the only Mundelein newcomer to make an impact. Kessel's son Kyle sank the winning free throws with just 14 seconds left. Kessel finished with 12 points.

Despite his youth, Kessel is no stranger to pressure situations. He hit two free throws in the waning seconds of a game when Mundelein nearly upset conference power Stevenson. "He has been in three international tournaments and has been to camps since he was four years old. Pressure did not bother him. In fact, our other players look up to him," Mundelein Coach Kessel said. The younger Kessel was brought up to the varsity for the Thanksgiving tournament.

"It is a morale boost; without a doubt. But Round Lake played tough and their inside game was effective," Coach Kessel said.

For Round Lake, the loss was the first of the season after 10 wins. The Panthers would bounce back to beat Hampshire 69-44 but then were upset by Johnsburg 54-51 in the fifth place game.

The Panthers looked like they would have the last-second, game winning shot. Senior guard Brian Smith hit a three-pointer from the top-of-the-key to tie the game at 63-63 with four seconds left in regulation.

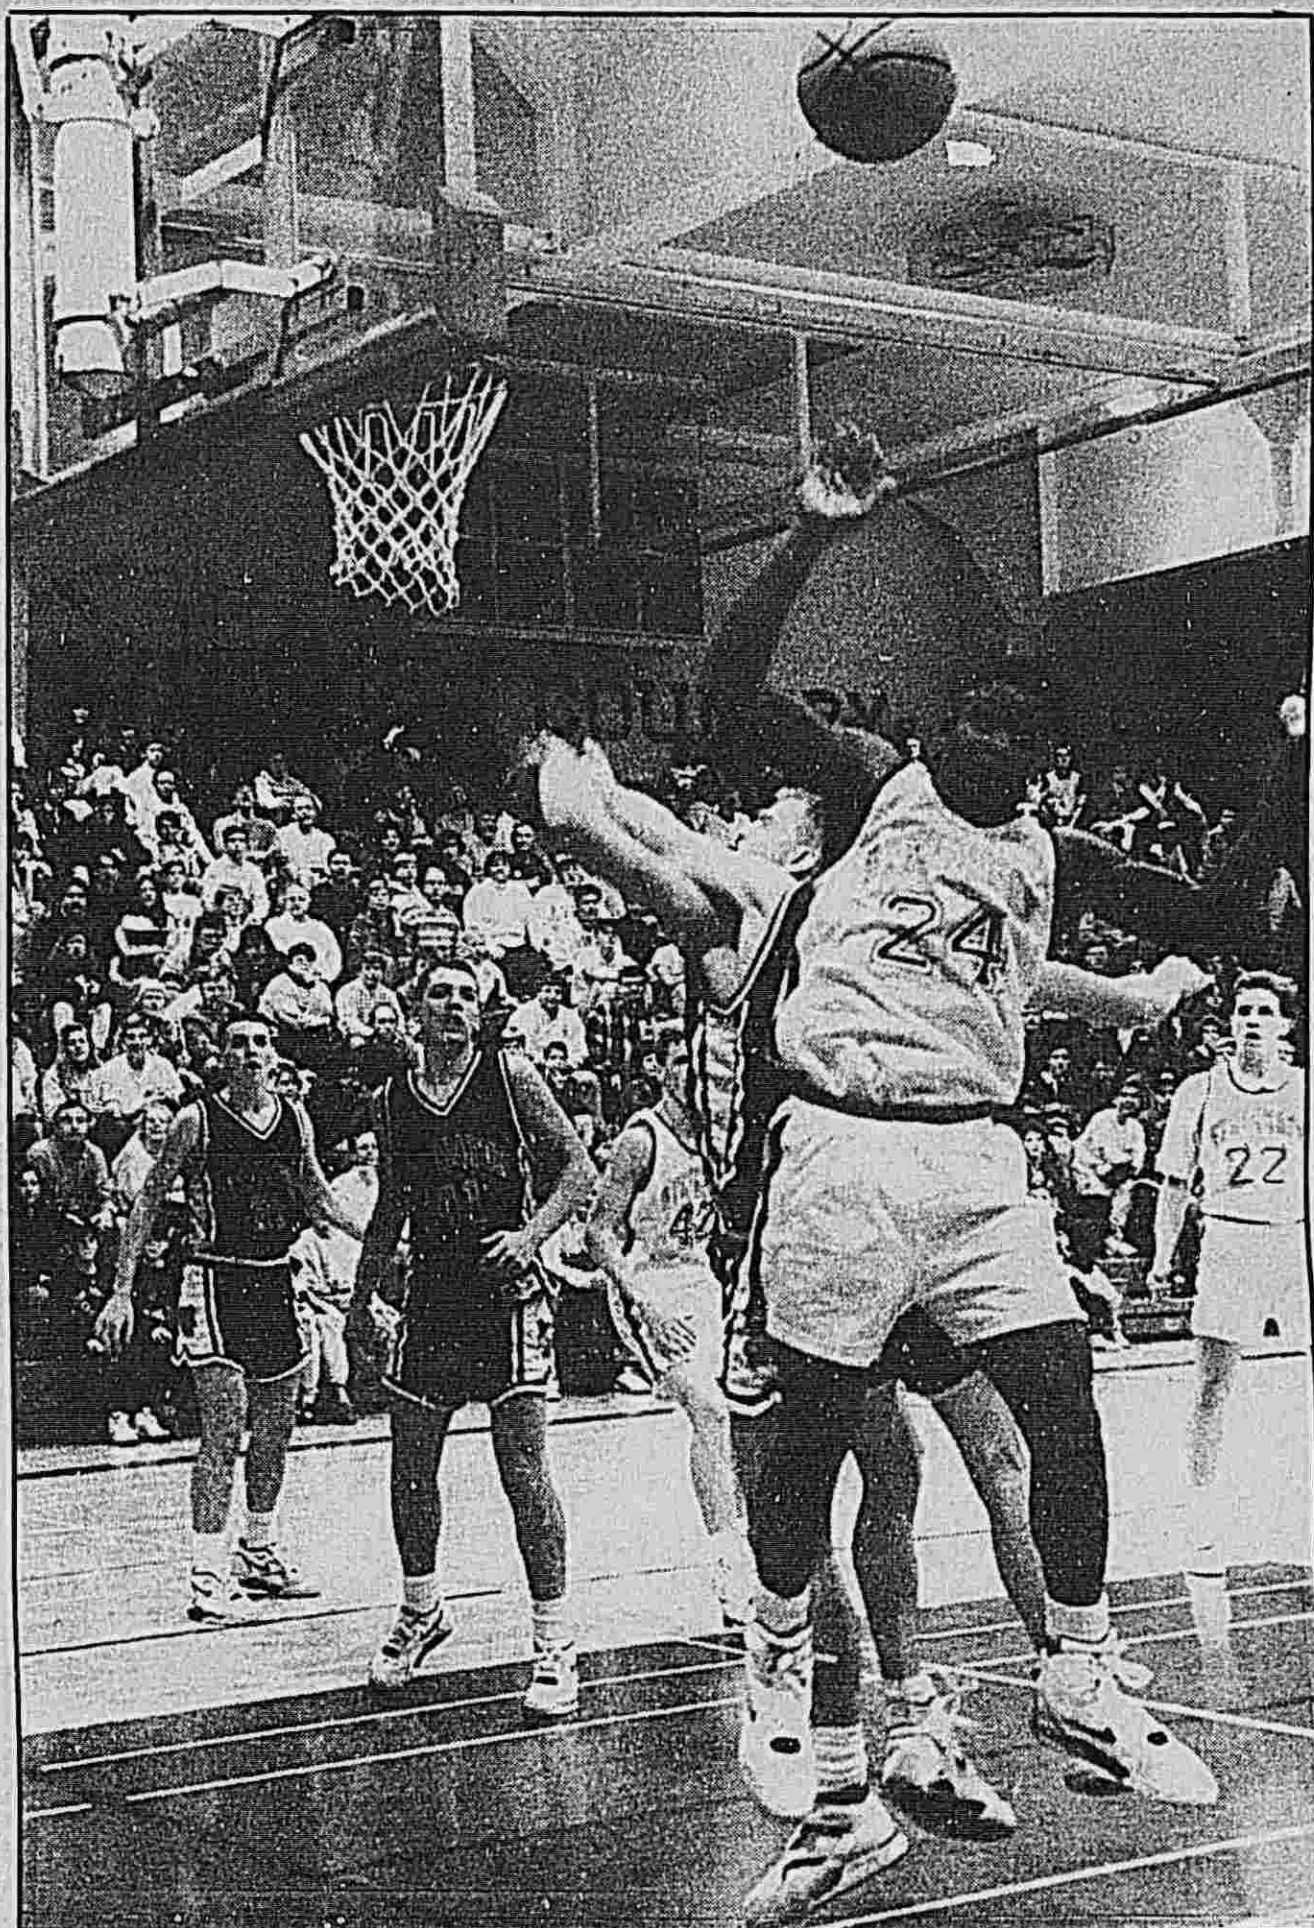

"We missed some shots off the offensive rebounds," Round Lake Coach Bob Ward said.

Mundelein, led by all-tourney selection Shawn Harlan's 30 points, jumped off to a 15-6 lead in the first quarter on a bucket by Kevin Sekenske.

Round Lake, down 19-12 after one, got back into the game in the second quarter. A three-pointer by guard Garrett Horn gave the Panthers a 23-21 lead. Round Lake's biggest lead came on a bucket by Pat Lejman for a 34-26 margin. Lejman led Round Lake's effort with 18 points. Illg had 16 and Dave Burton had 12.

Round Lake led by five at halftime.

Neither team could sustain a lead in the third and fourth quarters. Mundelein caught Round Lake on a three-pointer by Harlan midway through the third quarter. The third quarter did feature an injury to Round Lake's Mike Bragg. Bragg, a senior center, suffered a cut over an eye as he hit the floor.

Junior Sriver adjusting well to new 'Cats role

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

When Matt Sriver stepped onto the court at Libertyville High School for the first day of basketball practice, he knew he would be in for a new role.

For the Wildcats already had two senior guards, John Cimarioli and John Garwal on the roster and Sriver would be trying to learn the role and see some playing time if possible.

So far, Sriver has done more than that, adjusting to his new role with the Wildcats.

"This is my first year coming off the bench. In the past, I had started and averaged a good number of points," Sriver said. "You make sure you stay in the flow of the game."

Libertyville had no problem with McHenry in the first round of the Wheeling Hardwood Classic. The Wildcats prevailed 79-33 as each of the players scored. Sriver scored 10 of his 12 points in the second quarter and was one of four Libertyville players to reach double figures.

"Coach used six guys to start the year, but he has started to use the juniors more and that gives us a lot of confidence," Sriver said.

Sriver saw some important minutes in a 72-55 win over Stevenson the week before the Christmas tourney, a victory which gave the Wildcats a momentary tie for first.

Against McHenry, the Wildcats substituted freely from mid-way in the first quarter. After eight minutes, the Wildcats had a 24-6 advantage.

"It was an opportunity for some of the guys who normally don't get to play to contribute," Sanders said.

Despite leads of as many as 50 points, Sanders was still encouraging his forces to execute well.

Although no post-season titles were on the line, Friday night proved to be one historic evening for Lake County girls basketball. Libertyville clashed with Carmel for the first time and Carmel overcame 12 point deficits to win 54-48. But perhaps more importantly, the contest between the two neighbors, a three-point shot away from each other on Ric. 176, the fan interest is on the rise, according to Carmel Coach Bob Hankedahl.

"I told Tom Murphy (Libertyville coach) afterward that this was a great game for girls basketball," Hankedahl said.

Next year, Libertyville will not be at the Carmel Christmas Classic as the Wildcats are planning to take Christmas off, but will be playing the Corsairs in a non-conference game.

For basketball fanatics in general, the Christmas tournament season is the best time of the year. When else can you find a comfortable seat at say, 8:30 a.m., then watch eight games, leaving a gym at 10:30 p.m.? Yes, conference titles are to be determined and March Madness lies ahead, but I'll take Christmas tourney time ahead of both.

Hats off department: to hospitality room workers at Hampshire and Wheeling, who consistently make you feel welcome and making the drive worthwhile.

The courage in-the-face-of-adversity department: for McHenry's Joe Koczynski, who continued to hustle and scored 12 points in a 79-33 loss to Libertyville, despite his team losing by as many as 50 points. Honorable mention in this category goes to Grayslake's girls basketball team, which played in the Carmel Christmas Classic despite having just seven players.

Wildcats withstand rally by 'Streaks, claim third

A basketball fan would have had good reason to leave the Libertyville-Woodstock basketball game at the Wheeling Hardwood Classic early.

After all, Libertyville had a 20-point range and Woodstock was in the throws of a four-for-20 shooting slump. A blowout was certainly in the offing in this third place game at the Wheeling Hardwood Classic.

But a Blue Streak rally coupled with some free lancing by Libertyville made this one one of the more exciting games of the 32-game, 16 team tournament. Woodstock cut 18 of the 20 points from the deficit, but Libertyville prevailed to capture third place, 67-65. Woodstock dominated the fourth quarter 25-16, but it was not enough to overcome the early Libertyville leads.

"We were playing not to lose, not to win," Libertyville Coach Max Sanders said.

The Wildcats, 10-4 overall, received 28 points from senior Matt Williams, but even he did not escape some honest evaluation from Sanders.

"He picked up three fouls trying to block Leitzke's (Maury, Woodstock's 6-6 senior center) shot," Sanders said.

Andy Bauer had 16 points for the Wildcats, including the winning free throws.

Woodstock enjoyed a 7-4 lead early in the game on a three-point basket by Leitzke. But Libertyville went on a 12-0 run to conclude the first quarter, getting a three-pointer and a scoop basket by Williams and ending the period with a five-footer by Scott Keegan.

Libertyville had its biggest leads of the game in the second stanza. A three-pointer by Williams gave the Cats a 29-11 lead as Woodstock missed seven of its first eight shots from the field. Woodstock made a brief run at the end of the quarter for a 34-20 Libertyville lead at halftime.

"We had too many people starting to think out there," Sanders said of the second half.

"You have to go to your money man," Woodstock Coach Gordie Tebo said of Leitzke, who finished with 33 points on eight-of-17 from the field.

Leitzke started the Woodstock comeback with a three-pointer, trimming the lead to 47-31. Another three-pointer by the senior cut the lead to a manageable 11 points entering the final quarter.

An outside jumper by Leitzke pulled the Blue Streaks to within five, 63-58, with 6:10 left. A tip-in by Darren Spear, his only basket of the game, cut the margin to three.

Libertyville edged Woodstock 31-29 in rebounding, with Andy Bauer leading the way with 10. Josh Robinett, who scored 12 points, led Woodstock's effort with 11.

CHS outlasts neighbor Libertyville in initial tilt

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

When Sarah Smith was a youngster in Libertyville, she could be seen passing a soccer ball to Jori Seymour, or maybe Kelly Karl, or fielding a ground ball in softball off the bat of Michelle Stuckel in practice.

But for a few hours at least, these good friends became friendly rivals as the Libertyville Wildcats and Carmel Corsairs battled for the first time in girls basketball.

"They are all really good players," Smith, whose father coaches the girls basketball team at St. Joseph in Libertyville, said.

But for Friday was Smith's night to shine as she outdid her friends with 23 points and 19 rebounds as Carmel used a second-half rally to win 54-48.

Carmel improved to 12-4 with the win, second only to Warren in number of victories for a Lake County girls basketball team.

Moreover, the Corsairs continue their domination of their own Christmas tournament, winning it for the fourth straight time, the first time the tourney saw a five-team format.

Smith, a 5-9 senior forward, helped keep the Corsairs within shooting distance in the first half, as she scored 13 of her points and Carmel trailed 30-22 at intermission.

Carmel held Libertyville's big gun, Tara Driscoll to just two second-half points.

"We do not have a real strong bench, so we have to play the kids who are getting the job done. We told them to reach down and dig up something for the second half. I can't say enough for our team," Carmel Coach Bob Haukedahl said.

Libertyville got the ball inside at will against the home team in the first half. Libertyville made four of its first five shots en route to leads of 8-1 and 14-4 after one quarter. Driscoll and Michelle Smith, who had 15 points, contributed third shot opportunities for a 12-2 lead.

"We played overall well. We didn't do anything different. We knew we had to stop Sarah Smith, but in the second half we just got flat footed," Libertyville Coach Tom Murphy said.

Libertyville received the backing of the Waukegan team, which had defeated Highland Park 43-31 earlier. A Libertyville win would have forged a three-way tie for the title at 3-1, but Libertyville would have had to beat Carmel by 32 points to claim the trophy.

Carmel had secured another title with a 66-34 trouncing of Waukegan. Vicky Pecaro led the winners with a season-high 25 points. Michelle Canzolino scored 12 points before being injured and Smith had 10.

"Everything just seemed to click," Haukedahl said.

Grant earns consolation crown at new tourney

Attitude, they say, can go a long ways to determine final outcomes.

Just ask the Grant Bulldogs. The Bulldogs were struggling in the first half of the consolation game against Cary-Grove in the Hampshire Holiday Classic. Cary led 29-28, so Coach Tom Maple decided to discuss attitude.

"We had an attitude adjustment in the second half. We weren't running our offense much in the first half," Maple said.

Proving to be good listeners, the Bulldogs dominated the final quarter 26-18 as they pulled away for their ninth win in 14 games. The reward for the Bulldogs was a 66-61 victory and the consolation title in their first year at Hampshire.

All-tournament selection Rick Twarowski led the winners with 21 points. Maple was also pleased with the play of Jason Amedio, who scored 18. "We've been waiting for him to emerge and help on offense. This is his first really big game he has had," Maple said.

Demian Vela had 17 points for Grant.

Earlier, Grant had clubbed Cathedral 79-53 and Elgin Academy 64-47 to advance to the consolation title game.

Against Elgin Academy, it took the Bulldogs a quarter and a half to shake their opponents. Grant led 19-16 at one point in the first quarter, but Twarowski and Vela combined for seven points as Grant led 23-16.

Grant extended its lead to 20, 51-31, by the end of the third quarter.

Twarowski led the winners with 17 points, Vela had 14 and John Eiduke 10.

CLEARMONT

OVERALL DIMENSIONS: 40'-0" x 38'-0"
LIVING: 2331 square feet
GARAGE: 421 square feet
COVERAGE: 2752 square feet

400-42 CLEARMONT
By Landmark Designs

MAIN LEVEL

LOWER LEVEL

Call it a home or call it a cabin, the Clearmont easily fills either role. It is designed to be built into a hill, with access at the lower level limited to the front side.

Due to the compact and almost square layout, construction and heating costs will be lower than in many similarly-sized homes. Energy efficiency is also increased by the natural insulation of soil on three sides of the lower floor.

The second floor is the main floor. All the living takes place here. More windows than walls rim two sides of the home, allowing for full appreciation of a panoramic view. In addition to the broad vistas, the windows also give a bright, airy feeling to the living room, dining room, kitchen and master bedroom. In the living room, a vaulted ceiling further enhances the sense of spaciousness.

Placement of the range and oven in the eating bar makes it as handy for quick meals, served at the bar, as it is for more formal meals in the window-bright dining area. Family preference will dictate whether this room is outfitted as an informal eating nook, or a more formal dining room.

Internal access to the lower level is close to the kitchen, convenient for unloading groceries. Uses for the non-garage portion of the lower floor are limited only by the imagination of its owners.

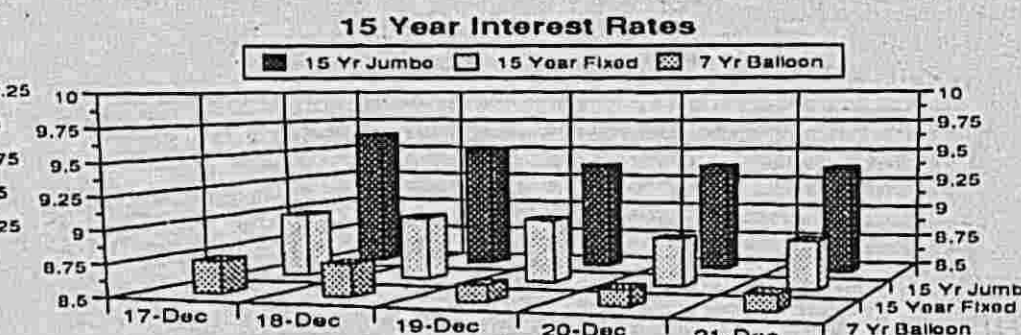

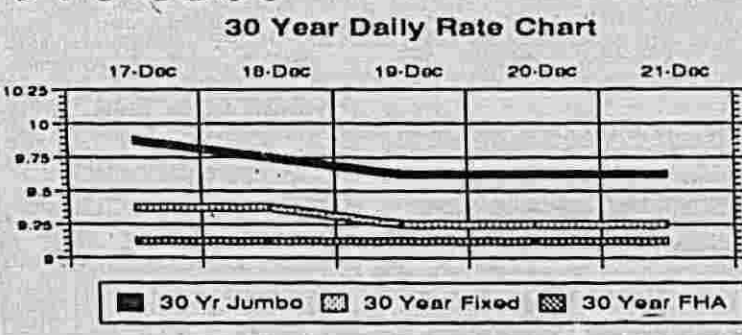

While it could be a shop, all, or parts of it, could also be outfitted as a playroom, utility room, exercise room, office, or whatever.

For a study plan of the CLEARMONT (400-42), send $5.00 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307, Eugene, OR 97402. (Be sure to specify plan name & number when ordering.) Designers, Architects and readers with plans they would like to see featured also are invited to contact Landmark.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

by Charles King Cooper

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Difficulty in communicating with others plagues you most of the week, but by the week's end, bring common-sense solutions. Try to put off important financial decisions till later in the week. Expenses escalate now, but you'll find new money-making opportunities.

TAURUS (April 20 May 20) Problems of self-assertion cause you to seek advice about putting your best foot forward. A friend will give you new insights. Curb a tendency to withdraw into yourself or to think negatively. Catch up on your bookkeeping. Put financial accounts in order.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You'll need tact and sensitivity in dealing with troublesome friends. Your spouse or a close friend gives you valuable support. There could be some loopholes in current business proposals. Pending negotiations will be troublesome until a breakthrough.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Distant affairs seem muddled — requiring extra effort to straighten them out — but the right answers will come in due time. There could be hidden costs regarding a financial deal. Real estate and domestic matters are favored. Family discussions help.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) You could experience a few trying moments regarding a partnership or a close relationship. Heart-to-heart talks will clear the air. You won't make as much progress on the job as you'd like, but your difficulties will teach you new ways to improve your efficiency.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Avoid extravagance in your pursuit of good times. You will reach a better understanding with a loved one before week's end. A family member's trying behavior requires that the two of you have a private chat to resolve difficulties. Your thinking is sharp.

LIBRA (September 23 to October

22) Your best confidante is your mate or close friend. Don't believe supertime rumors. Others may be purposely evasive then. Initiative and self-discipline combine to bring you business achievement. Be careful in financial negotiations with others.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) You'll take the lead in romance and may be surprised how much your feelings will deepen. There is some confusion late in the week. Tidy up unfinished business around the house. Do the necessary research regarding a domestic matter. Curb escapist tendencies.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Keep in touch with friends. Group activities are favored. Write letters or visit others. Avoid foolish romantic involvements. You get the go-ahead to reach for the top spot in your business career. A good day's work brings benefits. A relative distracts you.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Get important things accomplished early in the week. Later, you may obtain unreliable information. Enjoy cultural activities. Keep joint financial moves confidential, but avoid excessive spending. Be wary of somewhat dubious propositions toward week's end.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Though the week is favorable for solidifying romantic ties, you still may not see the situation exactly as it is. Avoid self-deception. Overall, you'll have a productive work week. This will further your ambitions, but there could be a misunderstanding with a co-worker.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Romance looks good, but friends aren't to be counted on this week. Education and creative projects are nicely accented. It's a good time to seek financing for projects that interest you, especially real estate. A higher-up may be evasive.

10 reasons why you should maintain and increase your newspaper advertising when business is slow.

1. Whether business is good or slow, you have to get your share of whatever business is around. Cutting back your advertising puts you at a disadvantage at the very moment when you need an edge. Increasing your advertising gives you the edge.

2. In times of uncertainty, consumers are careful and a little reluctant to spend. They want to be sure before they buy; they want information about products, services, prices and values. The best source is newspaper advertising. Yours—or somebody else's.

3. Maybe you figure other retailers in your line are going to cut back their advertising, so it's safe for you, too. Right? Wrong. You're in competition for the customer's dollar with very other retailer in town, no matter what he or she sells. People have only so many dollars to spend and if they don't spend them for what you sell they'll spend them for something else.

4. There are more people working now than ever before. More women working, too, adding to the family income. People still need and want goods and services and will spend for them. There is plenty of business out there. Your competitors will be bidding for their share—and yours.

5. You can't do much about most factors in the marketplace: rent, labor cost, price or merchandise, what the competition will do. But one thing you do control is your own promotion. Remember that newspaper advertising is not just a cost of doing business. It's a proven sales tool that returns many times your investment in store traffic and sales.

6. Remember how long it took you to get started? Once you build up a business, you can keep it going with a moderate, consistent advertising program. But if you cut your advertising and lose your hold on the public's awareness you'll find it's much harder to build it up again. It's sort of like starting all over.

7. Your advertising is part of your sales force. Newspaper ads help to pre-sell the customers and help you close the sale faster. What saves you time saves you money.

8. You say your customers know you and for a while at least they'll keep coming in even if you don't promote? That's partly true, but shortsighted. Remember, one out of five Americans moves every year. So there's a steady flow of your customers out of your market, and a corresponding influx of new folks who don't know you at all. Tell them about yourself.

9. Here's a hard fact to chew on. Over any given period, a business that advertises below the industry average has sales that are below the industry average.

10. Advertising is "news" — about products and services. Your customers look for this kind of news in the pages of Lakeland Newspapers. In plush times, retailers often experiment with other media. But when the going gets tough, they concentrate their efforts in the newspaper because it provides an immediate payoff at the cash register.

Experts explain basic functions of motor oil

Whether you drive a Model T or a futuristic concept car, never forget: Motor oil is the lifeblood of today's automotive engine.

Motor oil is responsible for the overall performance and efficiency of the engine from the time it starts to the time it shuts down. Its many responsibilities include permitting easy starts, preventing engine wear, cleaning and cooling engine parts, and aiding fuel economy.

Properly flowing motor oil is one of the key factors, along with battery and ignition condition and proper fuel volatility, in the ease of starting an engine. If the oil is too viscous or "thick" (viscosity is a measure of the oil's resistance to flow) at starting temperatures, it will slow the engine's moving parts, preventing easy starts. The oil must be thin enough to flow at the lowest anticipated temperature and have enough film thickness to provide adequate protection at normal operating temperatures.

The effect of temperature on viscosity varies widely with different types of oil. However, with the advent of multigrade motor oils, motorists can have both easy starting at low temperatures and adequate protection at engine operating temperatures. Motor oil viscosity is rated by the Society of Automotive Engineers (SAE). Motorists can choose from single viscosity oils, such as SAE 10W-30. SAE viscosity ratings are printed on the containers of leading motor oils. Most passenger cars and light trucks now require multi-viscosity motor oils.

Once an engine starts, the oil must circulate promptly and lubricate all moving surfaces to prevent metal-to-metal contact in the engine. This continual lubrication process reduces wear and prolongs the life of the engine. In many parts of the engine the oil is expected to establish, and constantly replenish, a complete, unbroken film between surfaces.

The longevity of engine parts depends in part on the ability of the motor oil to neutralize the effects of corrosive substances, such as water and the byproducts of fuel combustion. Motor oil researchers have developed effective additives which help prevent rust and corrosion in engine parts.

Detergents and dispersant additives blended into modern motor oils help keep vital engine parts clean and allow oil contaminants to be drained with the oil during regular oil changes. These cleaning additives are also effective in preventing engine sludge and varnish deposit build up. Engines cannot tolerate excessive amounts of sludge and varnish on sensitive parts, such as oil pump screens, piston rings and oil passages.

One of the most important functions of motor oil is to act as a coolant to remove heat generated by the engine. Many people assume that engine cooling is accomplished only through the action of the water-antifreeze mixture used in the cooling system. This mixture, in fact, does only about 60 percent of the cooling job. It cools the upper part of the engine only, the cylinder heads, cylinder walls, and the valves. Parts of the engine, including the crankshaft, the camshaft and its bearings, and many other components, are directly dependent on the motor oil for necessary cooling. These parts must get an ample supply of cool oil to pick up the heat and carry it back to the crankcase, where it is cooled by heat transfer.

Some oils have been specially formulated to give improved fuel economy in gasoline-fueled engines. For example, Valvoline is upgrading its All-Climate 5W30 and 10W-30 motor oils to Energy Conserving (EC) II levels. Valvoline Turbo Formula 5W-30 and 10W-30 are designated as EC-II oils. EC-II level motor oils provide a minimum of 2.7 percent better fuel economy over industry standard reference motor oils. Several domestic and foreign car manufacturers have given notice that only EC-II motor oils will be recommended in owner's manuals in the near future.

Recent high performance engine designs and more demanding driving habits by motorists have expanded motor oils "engine responsibilities." Because of this increased work load, it is more important now than ever for motorists to follow engine manufacturer's motor oil recommendations listed in the owner's manual.

The ability of a motor oil to withstand punishment is rated by the American Petroleum Institute (API).

The API rates oils for gasoline-powered engines (SG) and for diesel engines (CE, CD, CDII, CC). The API approved in 1988 the new "SG" motor oil, which further reduces sludge, varnish build up and engine wear. The highest recommended API ratings today for passenger cars and light duty trucks are SG-CD.

Cooling system service keeps your car safe and dependable

Would you risk a $1,500 repair bill to save $25 on car service? That's the gamble you take if you've fail to have seasonal cooling system service done on your car. One out of five cars and light trucks inspected in National Car Care Month vehicle checklanes was found to have substandard cooling system anti-freeze protection.

A vehicle takes an abnormal amount of punishment in severe winter weather. The most noticeable cold weather symptom is slow starting, usually a result of the drastic decrease in a battery's cranking power.

The engine is harder to turn over for another reason: the oil is thicker. Everything, in fact, acts stiff: the heater fan, the shock absorbers and springs, the steering, the transmission, even the brakes.

So just because you have the engine warmed up, don't assume your car is rarin' to go. Drive it easy for a few miles in cold weather.

Other cold weather tips are:

Add a little extra anti-freeze solution to your windshield washer reservoir, not the type you use in the engine, but a concentrate available at most auto supply stores. In extreme cold, a pint of rubbing alcohol added to the windshield washer solvent will help prevent freezing.

Do not use pure anti-freeze. The normal mixture is half water and half ethylene glycol.

Use extreme caution when spraying starting fluid. A backfire through the carburetor or any spark can cause fire or explosion. If you must use starting fluid, be sure to have a good fire extinguisher nearby.

Johnsburg aiming to make waves in NWSC league race

Johnsburg's boys basketball team has proved it can dominate non-conference opponents and league foes when the situation is not a Northwest Suburban Conference tilt. Now, Coach Jeff Lewiston's squad is hoping it can make some waves in the conference standings after a 1-4 start.

The Skyhawks garnered a fifth place trophy at the Hampshire Holiday tournament with wins over Lake Zurich and an upset over Round Lake. Johnsburg, 9-5, is at Richmond-Burton Jan. 8, one of only two non-conference contests left on the schedule. Eight of Johnsburg's nine wins have come in non-league affairs.

Johnsburg clubbed Lake Zurich 73-43 before edging Round Lake 54-51. Round Lake had soundly defeated JHS at Thanksgiving.

"That was a big win for us. It proved we can play with teams in the conference," Lewiston said.

Johnsburg led most of the game against Round Lake, although the Panthers did gain an advantage in the second half. "We talked about how we had to be aggressive when the other team is aggressive," Lewiston said.

Paul Jargstorf earned kudos for his defense on Round Lake's Wally Illg, as he held the sharpshooter to eight points.

Against Lake Zurich, Johnsburg started fast and never looked back against the 3-9 Bears. JHS led 22-7 after one, 45-24 at halftime. Junior guard Keith Boon led the winners with 14 points, while Jargstorf added 11. The Bears were competitive in the third stanza, losing that quarter 12-6, but Johnsburg finished with a 22-7 blitz.

"It's been a few years since Johnsburg has had nine wins at Christmas," Lewiston said. "The kids have to learn, on any given night, they have to show up ready to play ball. They have to learn to be confident."

Round Lake was coming into the Johnsburg game of a 69-44 win over Hampshire. A 22-10 first quarter set the tone for Round Lake. Illg had 23 points, while Dave Burton had 16 and Pat Lejman 12.

Dan DuFour led Johnsburg against Round Lake with 17 points and Erich Hoffman added 12. Lejman had 12 for the Panthers, Burton 11 and Illg 10.

Women's Club meets

The Antioch Woman's Club will hold its first meeting of the new year on Wednesday, Jan. 9 in the community room of the State Bank of Antioch, 440 Lake St. The board will meet at 11:30 a.m. and the membership will meet at noon. The program to follow is entitled "Writing Golden Memories."

Drains Run Slow?

You'll never have a slow running, or clogged drain again! The secret? Clean drains don't run slow.

Slow drains, or periodic clogs, are SIGNALS that a thick layer of GOOK is choking your pipes. Grease, hair, and other waste stick to your pipes, with every use. This gook deposits along the entire length of the pipe. It chokes your pipes gradually, as it gets thicker and thicker.

Conventional drain openers can't fix slow drains. They react chemically on the surface of the gook. To be effective, they must remain in contact with the waste. Even a small tunnel through the gook lets them flow out to the sewer, leaving the gook behind.

In the past, the only way to remove this build-up was to rooter your pipes. An expensive, temporary measure.

CPR techniques could help save your pet

CPR is a technique that combines artificial respiration and heart massage to revive human heart attack victims. Pet owners often have difficulty handling their pet when it loses consciousness, but CPR should work. The animal version of CPR can be used when a pet loses consciousness due to cardiac arrest, injury, trauma, or smoke inhalation, for example:

When a pet has heart failure, the owner should avoid three reactions.

1. Do not panic. It is up to you to convey a sense of calm not only to your animal, but also to those around you.

2. Do not waste time. Make immediate arrangements to transfer the animal to a nearby veterinary hospital.

3. Do not handle the pet unnecessarily. Administer first aid or CPR to avoid further injury and to save its life.

Keep the animal comfortable, stable and calm. Observe and evaluate the situation constantly, talking to your pet slowly as you would talk to a child. Approach an injured animal slowly and carefully, because even a pet with absolute trust and confidence in you may attempt to bite or scratch when this is the only way to know how to communicate fear and apprehension.

The first step in CPR is to restrain the animal by muzzling a dog or wrapping a cat in a towel or blanket. Next, use a blunt instrument or cloth to clear the animal's mouth of foreign objects, blood, or mucus. Never use your fingers for this procedure because the animal may bite them.

Inflate the lungs by blowing short breaths into the animal's nose, not mouth, until the chest expands. You may use a handkerchief if you prefer.

The air passageway through an animal's nose is better than the mouth because it creates a closed system which enables the lungs to expand. Blow 15 times per minute. At the same time, apply heart massage with your free hand about 60 to 80 times per minute.

There is no time limit for applying CPR. The technique may be used until the animal begins breathing and the heart is beating or until the owner is certain that the patient is beyond help with no chance of survival. Check with your veterinarian on proper CPR techniques or for pet CPR classes in your area.

NEW EXPECTATIONS

'91's first baby born minute after midnight

by GLORIA DAVIS
 Lakeland Newspapers

According to information available at press time, Lake Forest Hospital seems to have had the first baby born in a hospital in Lake County for the New year.

Seven-pound, five-ounce baby girl, Kelly Marie, was born to Lisa and Tim Brew of Wheeling, at 12:01 a.m., on Tuesday, Jan. 1.

After calling all six Lake County hospitals, information received has the second baby born at St. Therese Medical Center in Waukegan, at 12:51 a.m. on Jan. 1. It was a nine-pound baby boy, born to Abisrael and Esther Loria of Waukegan.

Lake County's third baby was born at Victory Memorial Hospital in Waukegan, at 2:13 a.m., on Jan. 1. It was a baby boy weighing seven pounds, 11 ounces, born to Elette

Adams of North Chicago.

Next in line is an eight-pound baby girl, born at Highland Park Hospital, at 3:14 a.m. on the first day of 1991. The proud parents are Georgia and William Terry of Vernon Hills.

Running a close fifth, was a seven-pound, four-ounce baby girl, born at Good Shepherd Hospital in Barrington, at 3:47 a.m., on Jan. 1, to Blair and Susan Corbett of Lake Zurich.

Choosing day care carefully

The Health Facilities Div. of the Lake County Health Dept. offers these tips when choosing a day care or preschool program for your child.

Visit the center and tour the facility. Be observant of everything you see, hear, smell and feel. Discuss any concerns you may have with the director. Here are some questions to consider.

Safety: Is the building clean and free of clutter? Is there an emergency/disaster plan? Is the plan known to all staff and is it practiced regularly? Is the children's area safe? Make sure electrical outlets are covered, there are no dangling cords and no access to harmful substances.

Health: Is the director firm about required health forms (especially immunization, T. B. skin test and physical exams) being completed when a child begins the program? If the center administers medications, what is the established procedure to ensure that children receive the correct dosage at the proper time? What is the procedure for contacting parents when a child becomes ill? There should be a supervised area that is (Continued on next page)

NEW EXPECTATIONS

Disposable vs. cloth diapers: neither environmentally superior

A new study has determined that the overall advantages of disposable diapers outweigh those of cloth diapers, even when environmental issues are considered.

The study, "Disposable Versus Reusable Diapers: Environmental, Health and Economic Consideration," concluded that neither cloth nor disposables were superior in terms of environmental impact, but that disposables surpassed cloth from a health standpoint and were more economical than cloth when a minimum labor cost was included.

Arthur D. Little, Inc., an international management and technology consulting firm, studied this issue at the request of Procter & Gamble, the manufacturer of Pampers and Luvs disposable diapers. Diminishing landfill space has caused the "environmental suitability" of products to be judged solely against solid waste considerations. The Arthur D. Little study indicates that a more comprehensive environmental analysis is necessary, one that looks at water and energy use, as well as air and water pollution.

"Products with short lifespans have received a lot of public attention because of waste disposal concerns," said Anthony Montrone of Arthur D. Little.

"We believe this report puts the issue into perspective by looking at the full environmental implications of these products."

The Little study is based on a child's average weekly diapering needs, including the number of changes and the number of diapers used per change. The study determined, through interviews with mothers and diaper services, and by reviewing industry data, that parents used an estimated 1.9 cloth diapers versus one disposable per change.

It concluded that the manufacture and use of cloth diapers cause 50 percent more process solid waste, in the form of wastewater treatment, sludge and incinerator ash, than disposables. Cloth diapers also use more than three times the non-renewable energy resources (like oil, gas and coal) and more than four times the renewable energy resources (like wood and hydroelectric). The energy consumed to launder cloth diapers for all U.S. babies yearly would be enough to light 23,000 average commercial buildings for one year.

Furthermore, cloth diapers use more than six times as much water, an increasingly precious resource, particularly in areas experiencing drought conditions. If every diapering mother in the U.S. switched to cloth diapers, it would consume 57 billion gallons more water per year.

The study also found that making and maintaining cloth diapers releases 10 times more water pollutants and nine times more water pollutants and nine times more air pollution than the manufacture and use of disposables. An extra 14,000 tons of water pollutants would be generated if mothers of babies in the U.S. switched completely to cloth.

In terms of health benefits in home and day care environments, super-absorbent disposables were found to decrease the potential spread of infection better than cloth diapers, because they were less likely to leak and were handled less when soiled. Scientific studies published in professional journals have concluded that keeping skin dry is important in reducing the incidence and severity of diaper rash. Superabsorbent disposables outperform conventional disposables or cloth diapers in this area as well.

"Recognizing there are environmental impacts whatever the choice, the key consideration for parents should be what is best for their baby," said Nancy K. Eddy, Ph.D., of Procter & Gamble. "And it's clear that disposables are better than cloth at keeping babies drier, an important factor in preventing diaper rash."

The study also compared costs. Cloth diapers provide an economic advantage only if the labor costs of home laundering is ignored. The cost of disposables and a cloth diaper service are comparable, based on a greater number of cloth diapers used.

"We have always believed that superabsorbent diapers are the best diapers," said Eddy. "The benefits achieved with these diapers clearly tip the scales in their favor."

Day care

(Continued from Page 32) toys and equipment for your child's age? Is the program planned to meet the needs of a particular age group? Is another qualified child care worker available as a substitute when your child's regular care giver is absent? Does the director or staff turnover appear excessive? Staff turnover may affect your child's bonding with a care giver, willingness to attend the center, response to new rules and sense of loss.

Are parents informed about illnesses that occur at the center? Are age groups separated? Grouping them together could lead to additional communicable diseases. Nutrition: If a noon meal is served, who plans the meal and how are portions determined? Is that person knowledgeable about meal planning and nutrition? (In a licensed center, the menu should meet Dept. of Children and Family Services requirements). Is the meal served the same as the one shown on the menu? Is the meal served attractively?

Social Development: Are there sufficient

The program you choose should provide safe, loving and stimulating care for your child. For further information on choosing a program, and to obtain a list of centers, contact the Health Facilities Div. of the Lake County Health Dept. at (708)360-6733.

Des Plaines River project receives engineering award

The Des Plaines River Wetlands Demonstration Project has been selected by the Illinois Society of Professional Engineering for the outstanding Engineering Achievement Award for 1990. This project was submitted by the Lake County Chapter of ISPE and is located in Wadsworth, in the northeast corner of Lake County. The project consists of restoration of the natural riverine wetland condition of 2.8 miles of the upper Des Plaines River, which incorporates 450 acres of riparian land. The land is owned by the Lake County Forest Preserve District.

The Des Plaines River Wetlands Demonstration Project is a research project designed to produce the criteria necessary for rebuilding our river systems through the use of wetlands, and for developing management programs for the continued operation of the new structure. The research program will assess wetland functions through large-scale experimentation, controlled manipulation of flow rates and water depths, testing of soil conditions, and the employment of a wide variety of native plant communities. The project when totally completed will consist of eight experimental wetland areas ranging in size from 4.0 to 11.6 acres. Four of the areas, along with the necessary irrigation systems, were completed in October of 1988.

Wetlands Research, Inc. is a not-for-profit corporation established to administer and coordinate the project.

The completed project is estimated to cost $13.5 million, of which approximately 50 percent has been secured. The funding sources are local, state, federal and private.

The effects of the completed portion of the project are now visible. The river, once obscured by a wall of weedy vegetation, is now visible through a rehabilitated oak grove. Shore bird population has increased dramatically. Preliminary analysis has indicated that the experimental areas trapped over 80 percent of the sediment and nutrients contained in the incoming river water. This project will provide new and greatly needed information about how, and at what cost, natural wetland processes can be used to manage water and wildlife resources.

WHY DOUBLE YOUR TAX LOAD?

ANTIOCH PUBLIC LIBRARY DISTRICT
757 N. Main Street
Antioch, IL 60002

SHOP ANTIOCH

Part of every dollar we spend goes to help support community services and benefits and to pay part of the tax load. Whenever that money is spent out of town, part goes to support another community. Those same dollars spent at home turn around to help pay part of the tax-supported services that we can all enjoy. Don't overload your budget by spending out of town. Our community will only grow and prosper through the continuing loyalty of local residents shopping here at home.
